Charleen,

I know you hate to see a whole page go to waste but I have a feeling this page is going to be used up. I'm really, really glad that we got to know each other much better this year. (Well I'm along for the ride.) This year has been so much fun for me and you are pretty much the reason that's made it that way. I guess it's also because you can't stand to waste that one long study hall to be a good friend and I know I probably won't even think about you. I guess it's that I'll miss you when I'm gone. I don't think I'll be able to have another friend who I can say anything and everything to without worrying about what they wash stuff. I hope despite the hot weather. I hope your moving day goes smoothly and neighbors are not too black! I hope your sorry it came. You're going to get too much sun now, you don't want to have a tan in Texas and I'll be watch out for that sun time in the future sometime and I hope you're in the future sometime and I hope you're a doctor or nurse (is it an ambition?) comes through for you. Good luck.

Love,
Lisa

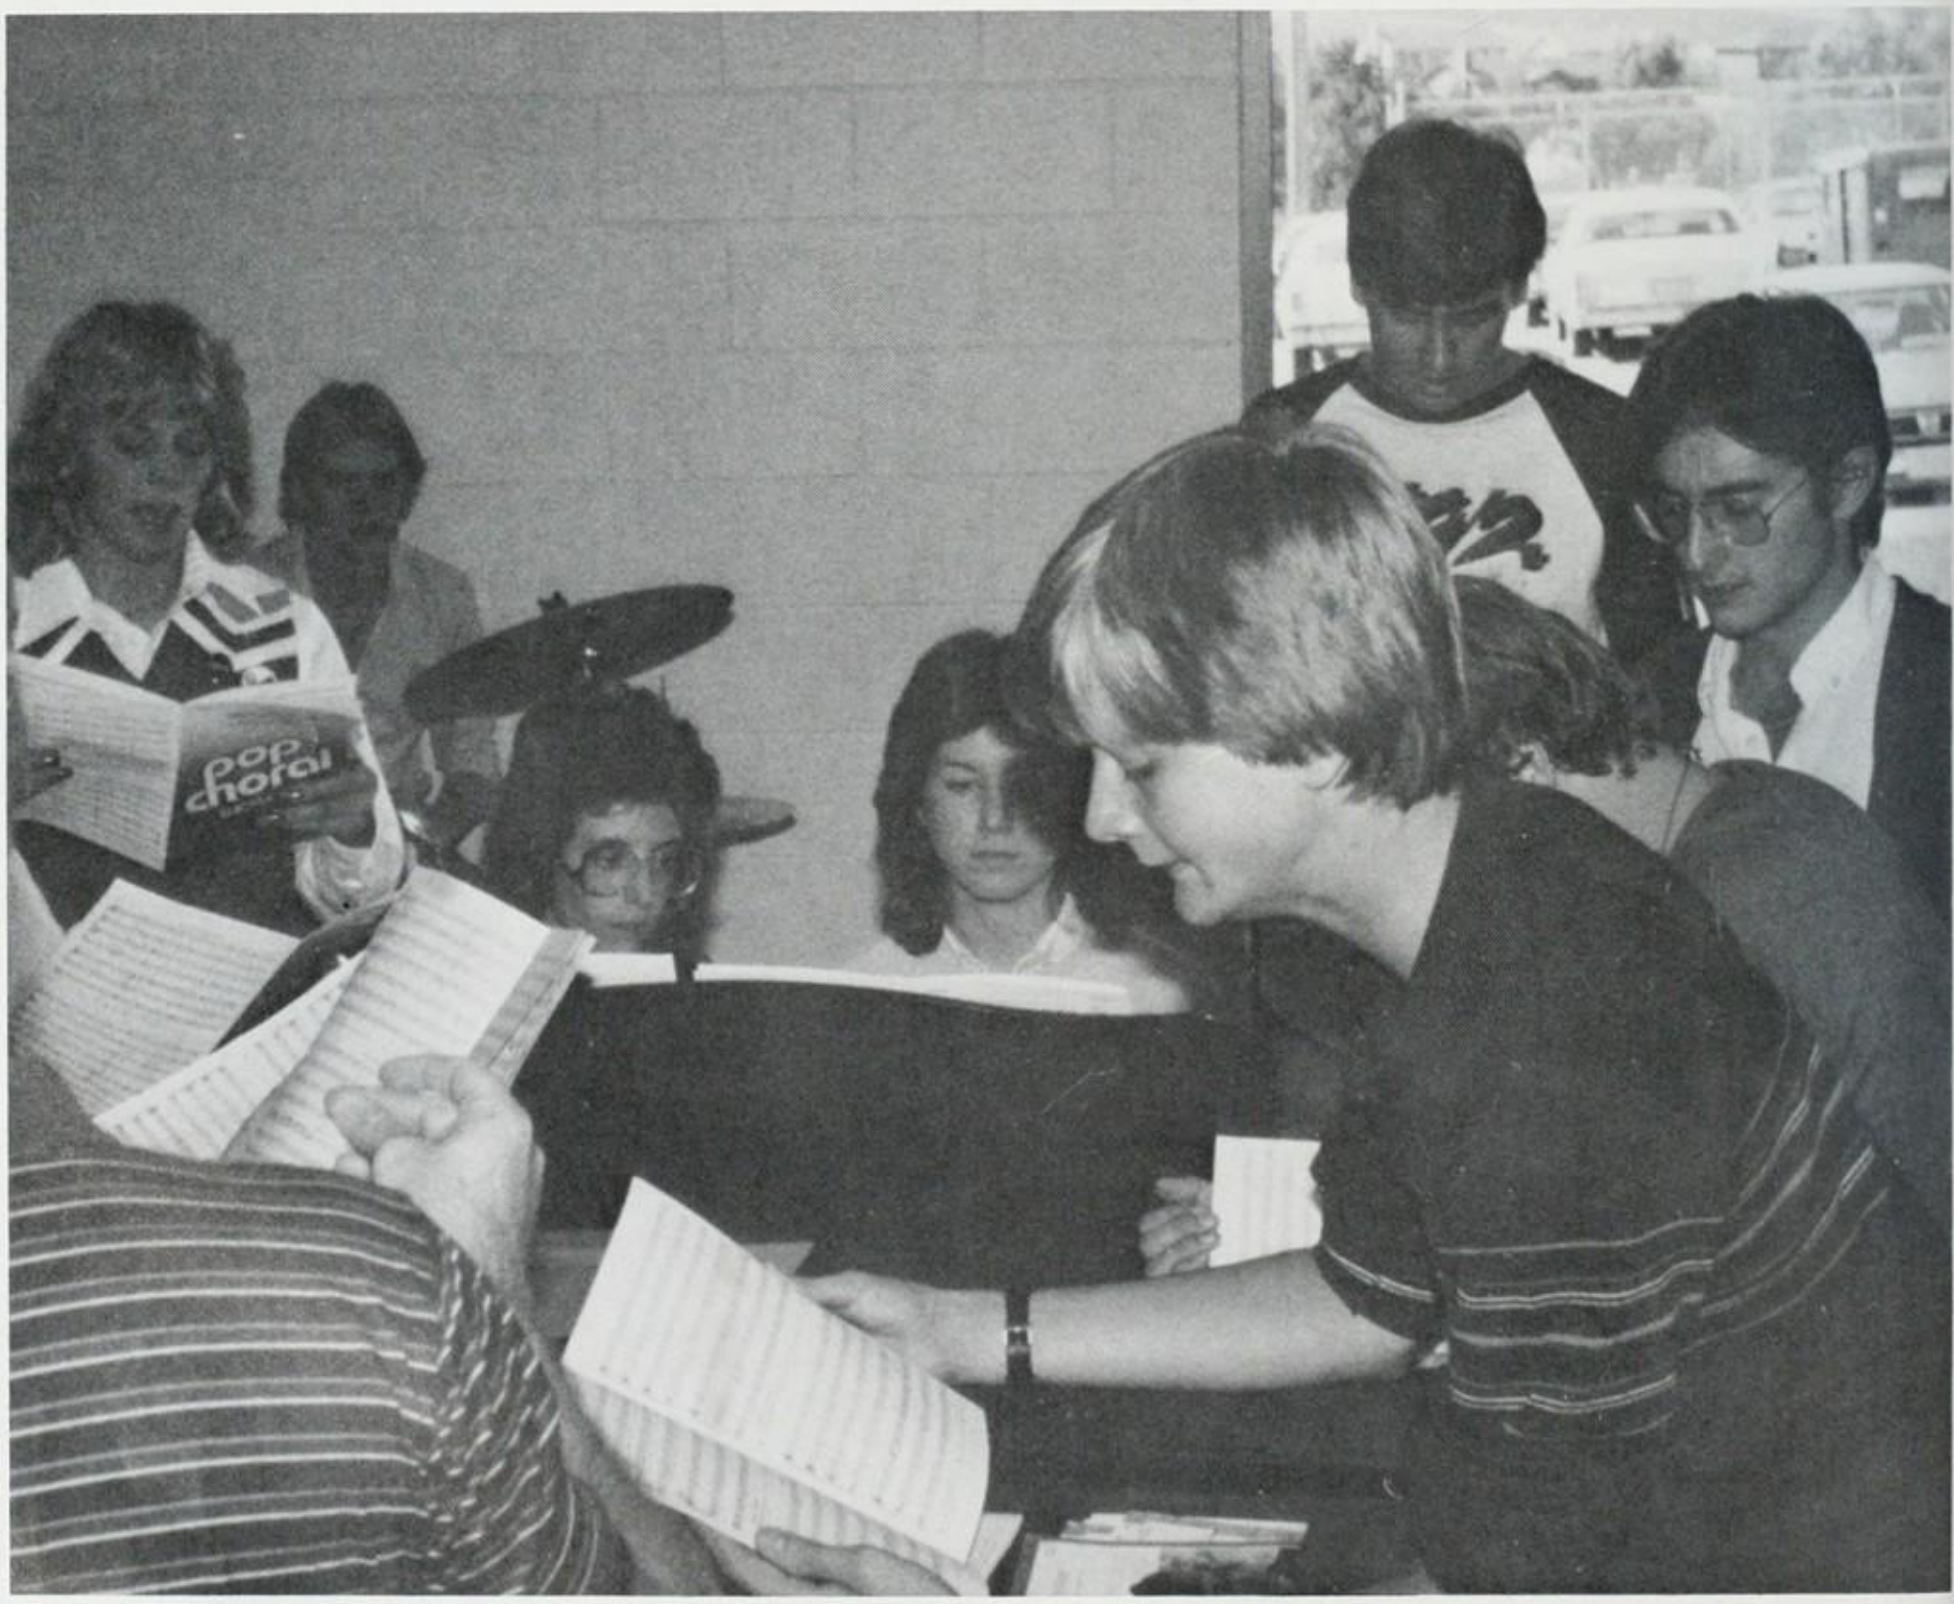
The octagon is the best symbol to represent our school year. Not only for the seniors, for whom this is an important year, but for all students attending Bellevue West this year, 1984. The octagon has eight sides. Eight divided by two is four. The beginning and the end of this equation is 84, our class year. The division of two is our year divided into two semesters. And now on to the highlights of this unforgettable year.

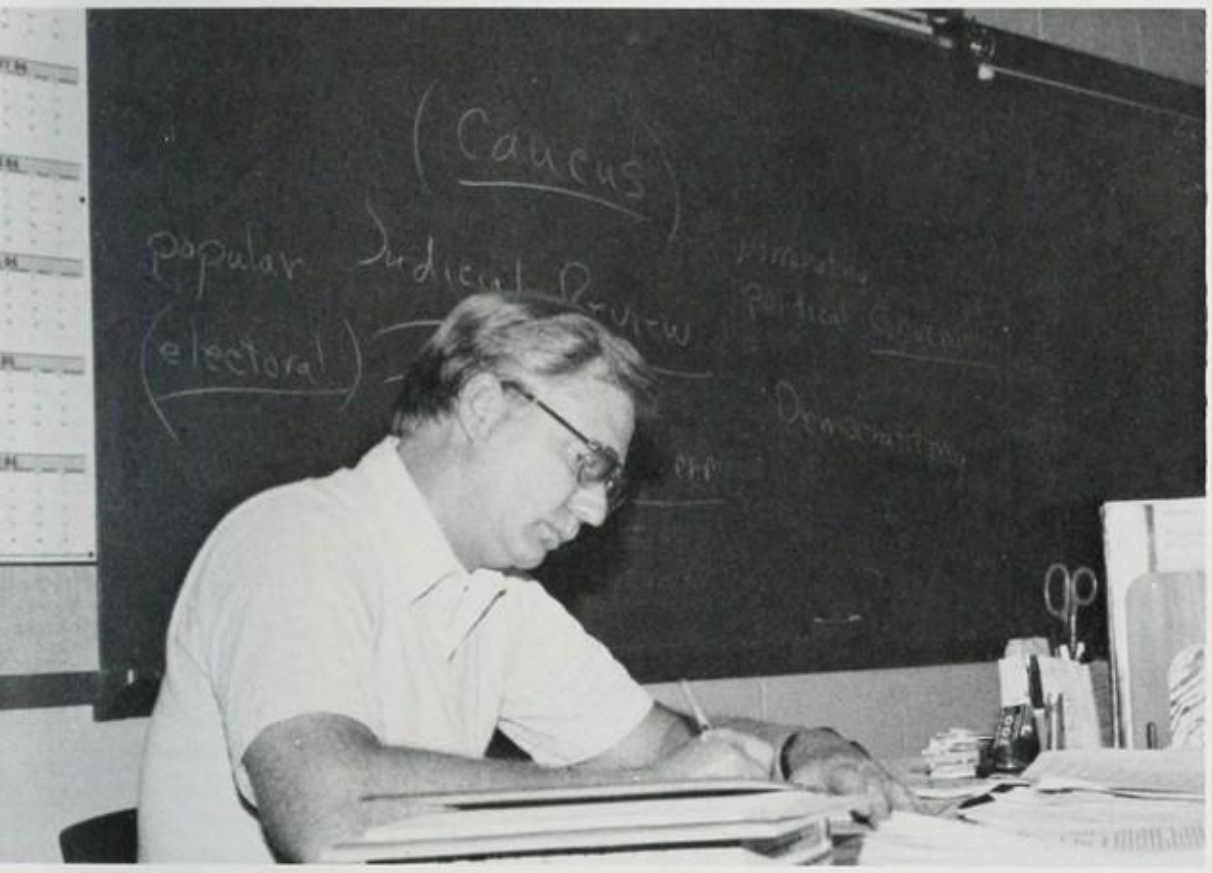
STUDENT LIFE

Bellevue West's Beat Goes On

BUZZ . . . . . goes the bell. One of the many things at Bellevue West that has a certain pattern, "A BEAT!"

As each day comes and each day goes the "beat" never changes. From hour to hour, as each bell sounds, the definite pattern can be heard. There are certain individuals who march to the beat of a different drum. Then there are groups of people that have to march together. They are individuals but consciously or subconsciously the pattern of their life depends on the pattern of others.



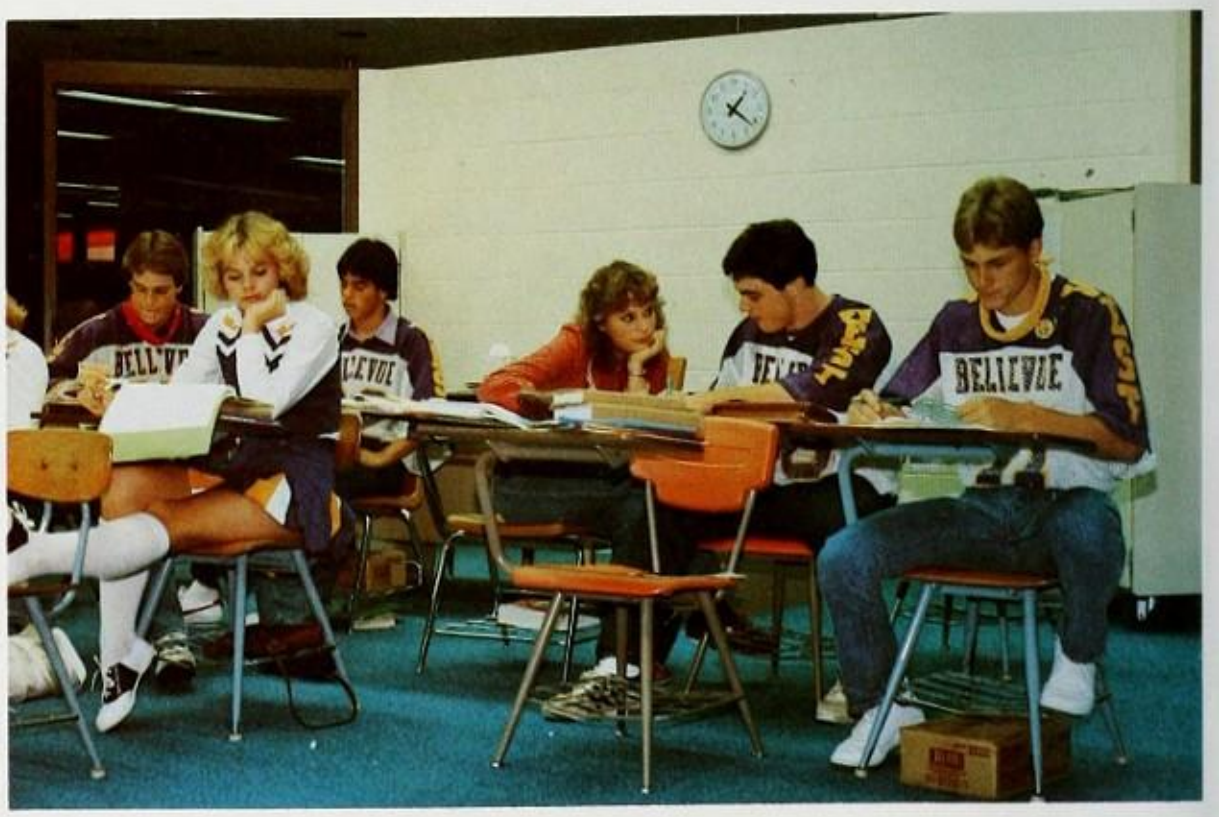


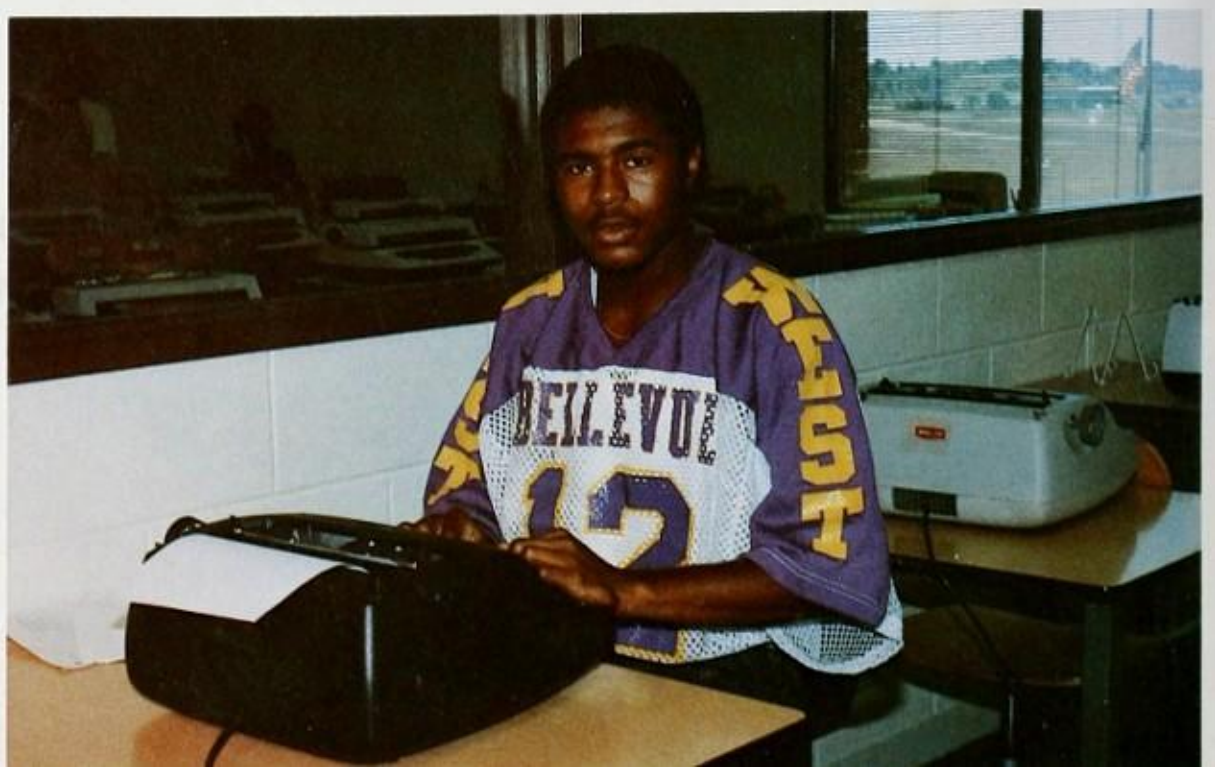
Top left Nicole Shinholser responds to the beat of the computer and left West Connection practice certainly responds to the beat of sponsor Don Reimer. The beat for American Government teacher James Kallemeyn may be felt by his students at the end of a hard exam. J.V. football player, Sean Fitzpatrick makes a threatening gesture like he is counting the time practice will end and remember those late breakfasts, top right?

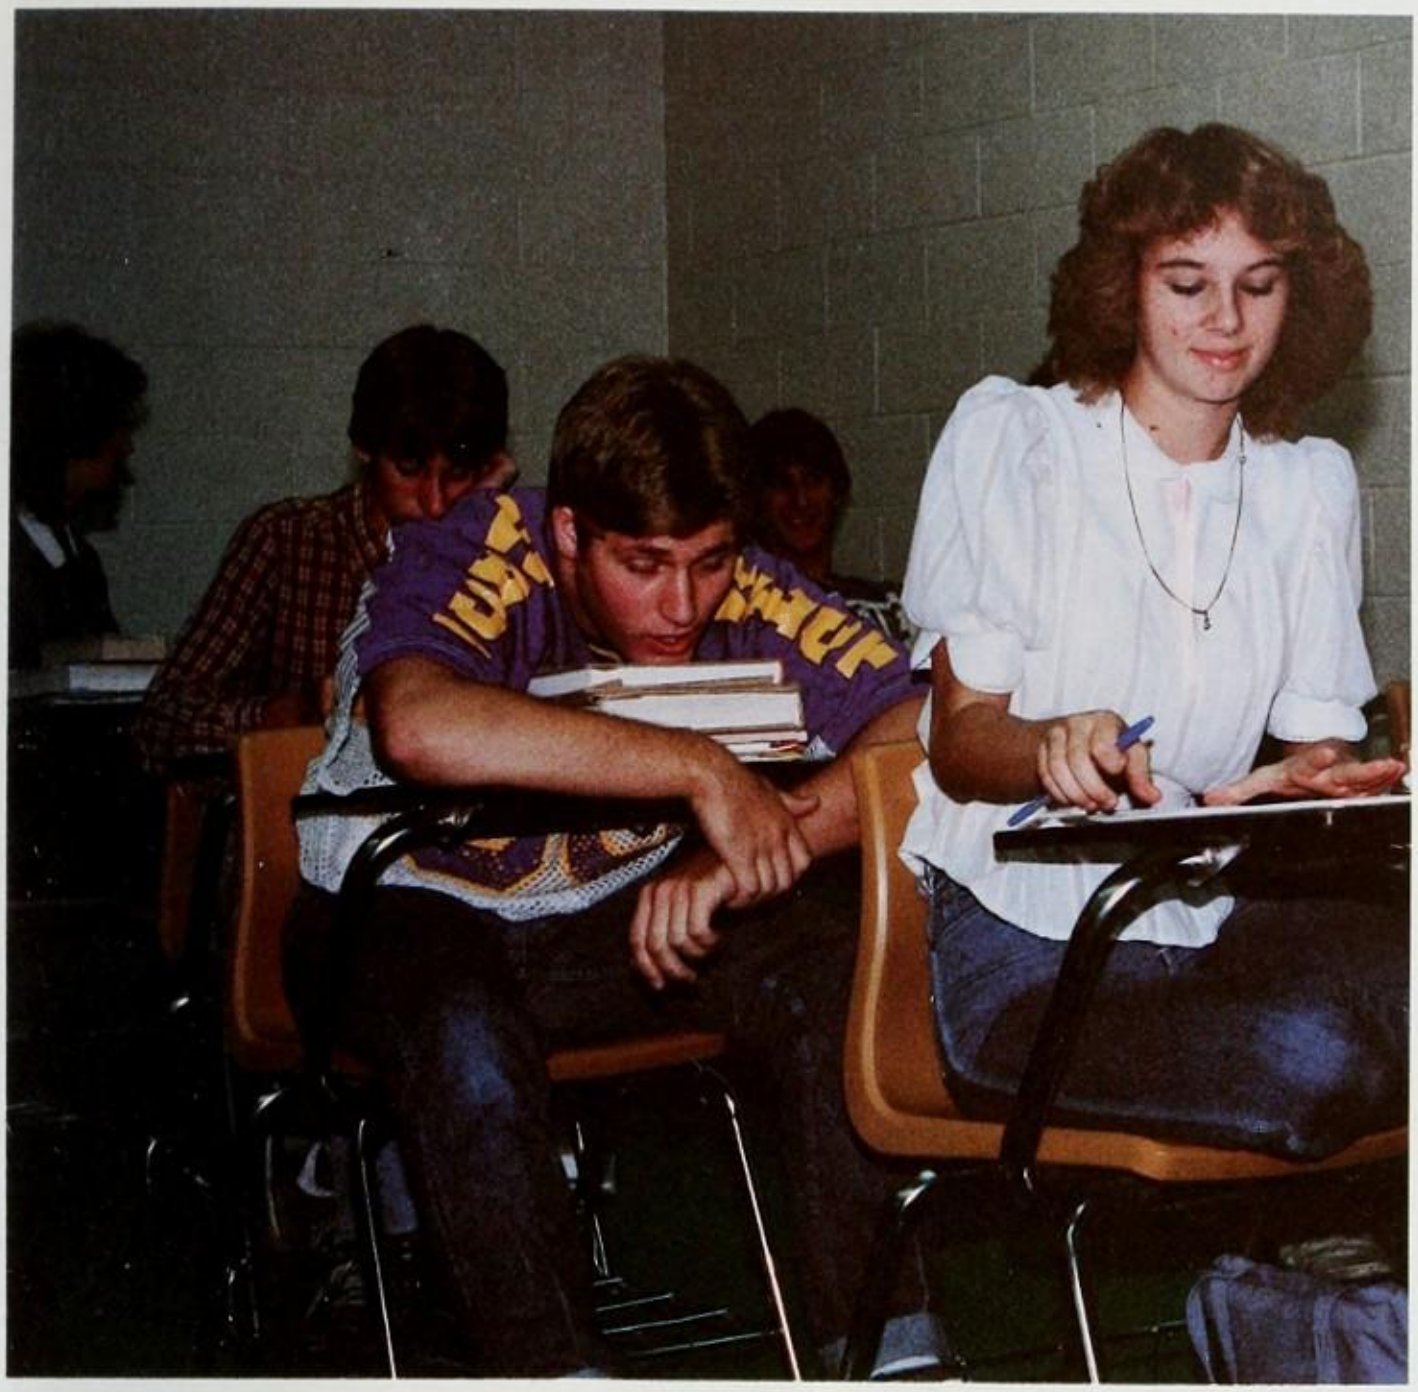
And the Beat Works and . . .

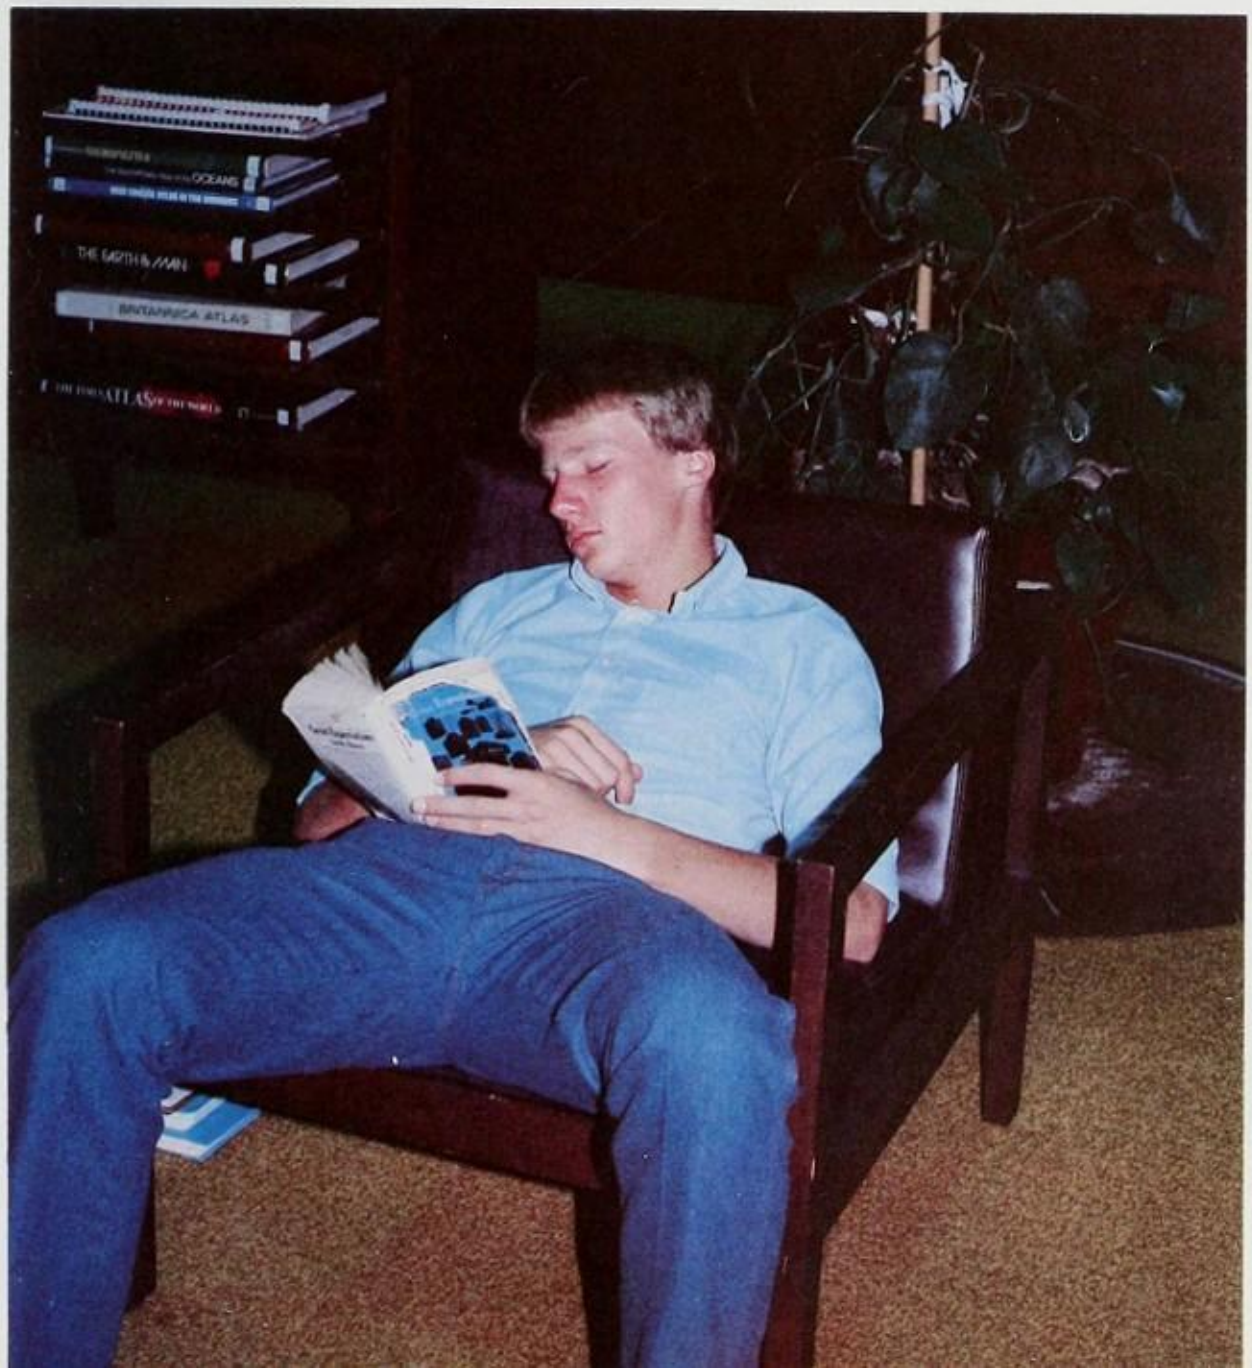
School has many aspects of studying. The ingenious students attending Bellevue West show an interest in expanding their horizons through computer technology and office machinery. Some read for pleasure, some just show a real interest in their studies and still others study more personal hobbies like the insides of their eyelids.

These are only a few of the many ideas and hobbies that have gone on at West. Everyone has things that interest them and many students have found ways to express themselves. Others more explicitly than some but, everyone is taking part.

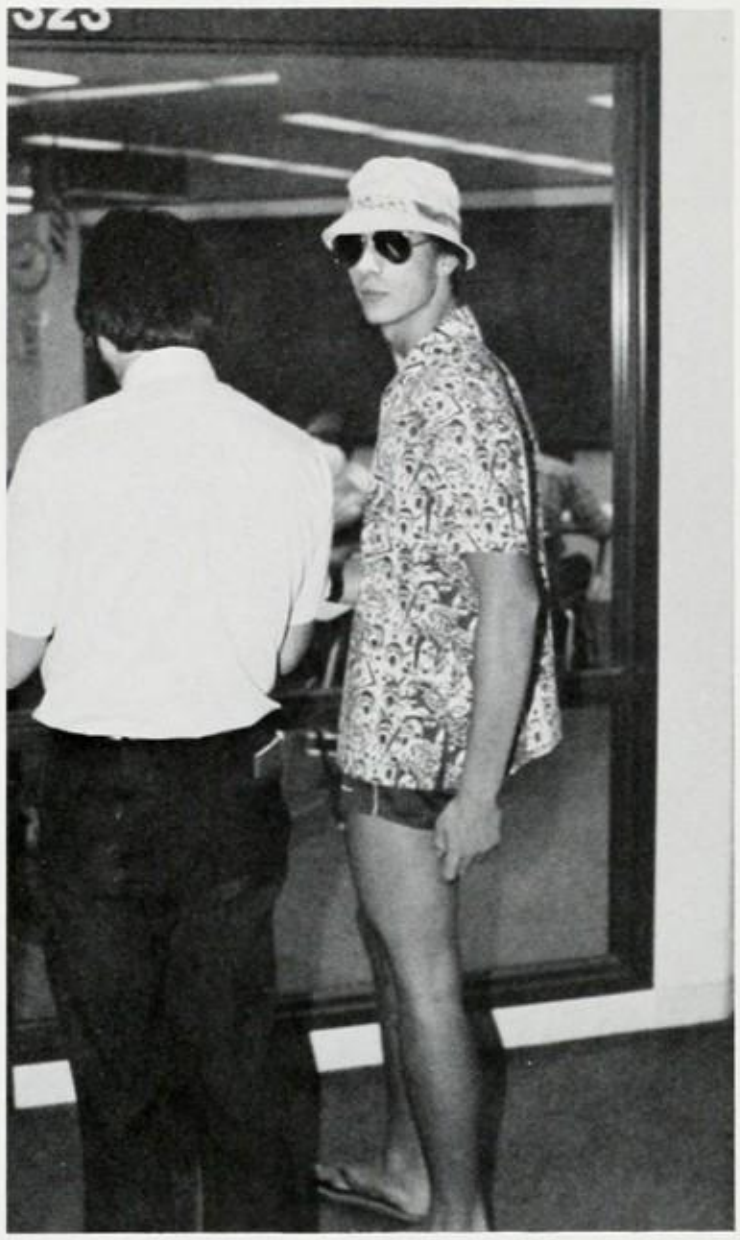




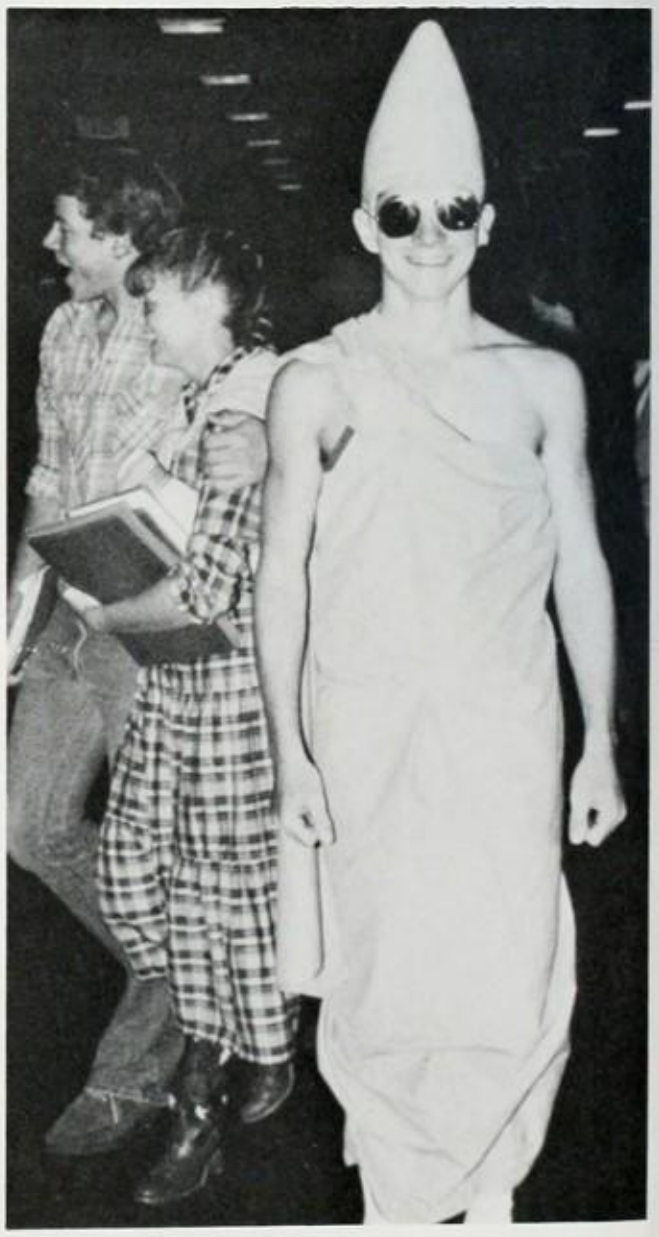


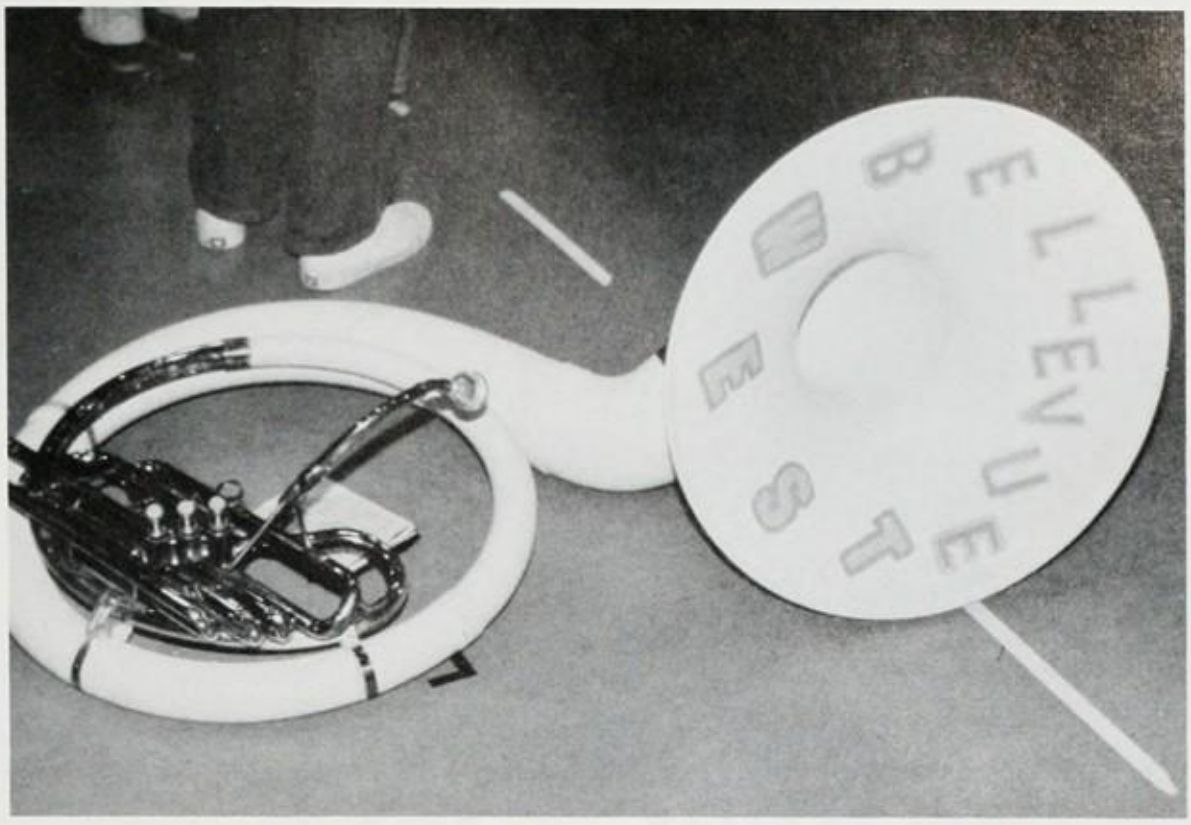


As if in another dimension, computer students work their way through a time warping problem. Math resource, is it hidden fantasies? Jarron Bradley shows astute skills behind the typewriter. (bottom left) Scott Gann, alias sleeping beauty, progresses rapidly into dreamland. Tim Cohen shows his enthusiasm for Mrs. Wolford's English assignments. Before and after Katrina's home.



Clockwise from above left Lynette Campbell on Hawaiian Day. John Pflugrath really has thoughts of surf and sun; the reverse side belongs to Mr. Walden. Kelly Englekamp tries to explain her shoeless state. Judy and Lori Hansen do it double on twin day. Just what every band needs is a self-playing tuba. West watches an awesome spectacle. "Aloha Bellevue West," says Bob Winkler, dancer at leisure. Saturday Night Live at West. Plaid Day turns into Toga Day as students show their individuality.





The Pattern of Everyday Life

To an observer, spirit week, was just another school week. One could say that spirit week hit a minority of the school.

Spirit does not promote itself. It needs a tool of promotion. The tool is you, the student body. Getting involved with the spirit of high school definitely improves one's outlook and attitude towards his high school years.

For those who were involved Monday of spirit week meant dress up day; the interpretation varied from crazy to fashionable. Tuesday took on twin day where buddies doubled up. Plaid day was in sight on Wednesday, but for some togas were in vogue or maybe out of vogue according to the administrators. The Islands came to West Thursday on Hawaiian Day and the week closed with the traditional purple, white and gold day.

Thunderettes encircle the band to cheer the Thunderbirds to another victory. This time the 28-21 Homecoming victory over the Millard North Mustangs October 14. Thunderbird mascot Larry Segebarth says hello. Obviously Tasha Piper needs a ride home and friends enjoy making music together. English teacher Mr. Kratina gives some more individual help and far right friends through thick and thin all they really want is to win again.

West's Spirit is Awesome, 83-84

Bellevue West Spirit is a most important contribution from its students. It is evident in almost every aspect of a student's life. The pride and admiration we have for our school is shown to outsiders through this spirit. It is displayed through the teams, clubs, teachers and students. West's pride is one of its most outstanding qualities. It makes Bellevue West a monument of every person's life.

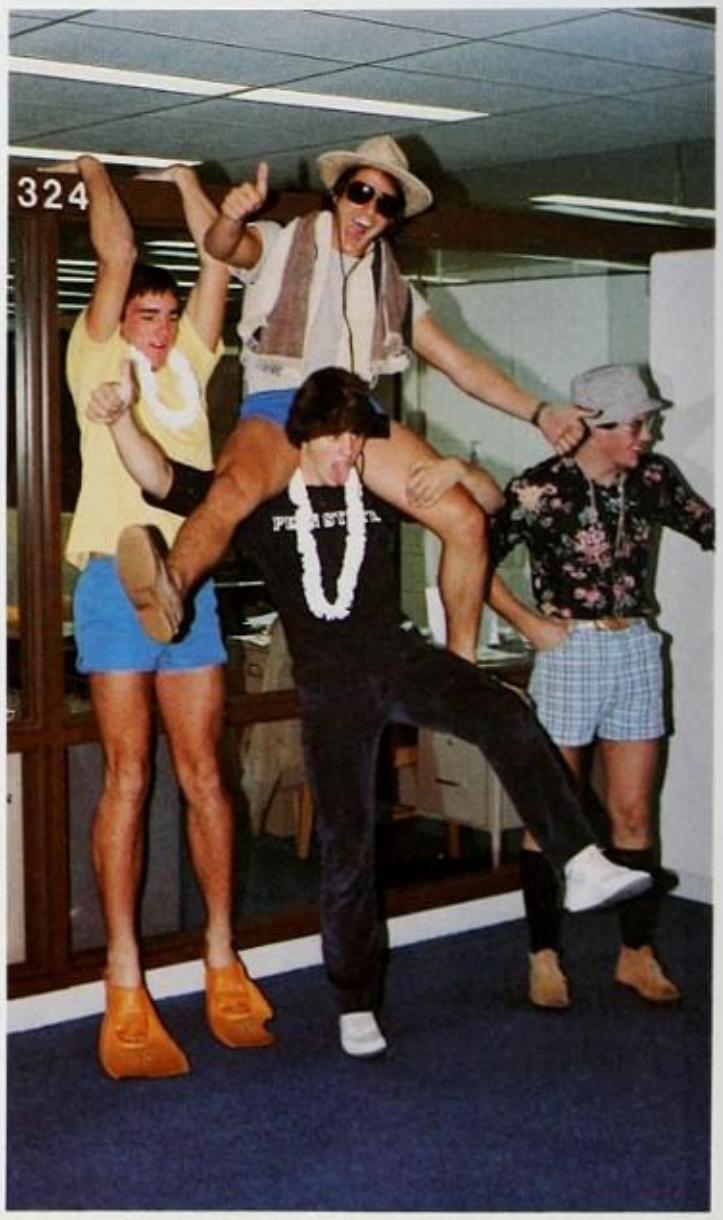
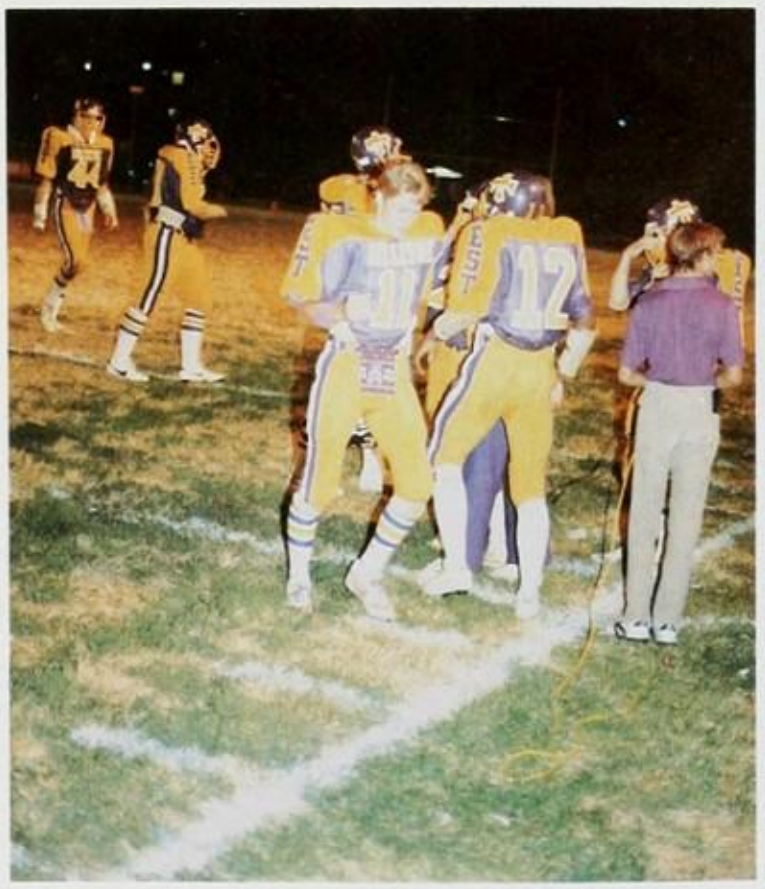
Homecoming Filled with Memories

To describe the 1983-84 Homecoming in one word or phrase is beyond impossible. To most, the evening was a night to remember. Filled with a variety of excellent music provided by the ever-so-talented band, Allspice; the humorous side of magic was demonstrated to us by Mr. Pat Hazell; a slide show of the student body during the somewhat out of the ordinary Spirit Week; and the theme, "Dance Into The Midnight Sun," was definitely evident out on the dance floor.

The main attraction of the evening was the coronation ceremony. Representing the sophomores was Duchess, Mary Goetz along with Duke, Tom Shafer; representing the juniors was Princess, Yvonne Lilly and as Prince, Jarron Bradley; representing the Seniors were Queen Nominees, Traci Barnes, Judy Hansen, Lisa Jenney, Michelle Kirkland, Karen Powers, Kate Thompson, Vicki Tobias, and Julie Vance. King Nominees were, Rusty Armstrong, Todd Dierlam, Paul Kallman, Jon Marco, Mike May, Pat Moore, Gordie Ringler, and Tony Scanlon.

Kate Thompson, crowned Queen previously at the victorious game against Millard North, was joined by King Rusty Armstrong in a slow dance to the tune of "Faithfully" by Journey.





Homecoming Queen and King, Kate Thompson and Rusty Armstrong dance to Journey's "Faithfully." In the spirit of Homecoming John Brandon displays Hawaiian. Far left students wear colors with pride. Hang Ten in the hallways? Pat Hazell proves magic is more that what meets the eye. The Homecoming court lines up for inspection and recognition. Jon Marco, John Doran and Ricky Carmona take a break from dancing to get some refreshments. Allspice performed and Pat Moore feels the spirit during the game above.

The hexagon is a six- sided figure and trying to relate this so-called figure to the baby section began to pose a problem. After hours of deep thought, a shallow conclusion was drawn. Hex rhyming with sex makes babies. A simple answer. These babies will be displayed on the next few pages. Enjoy ..... Pictured above: Karen Powers and Mike May.

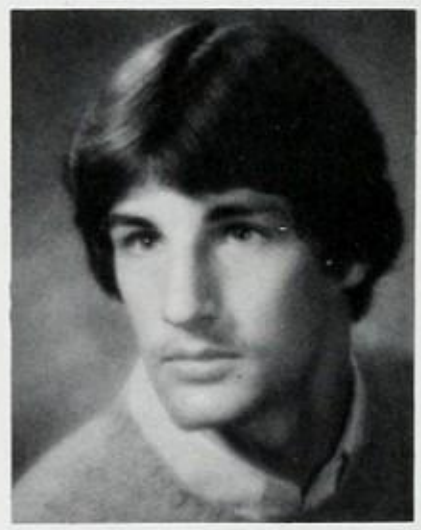
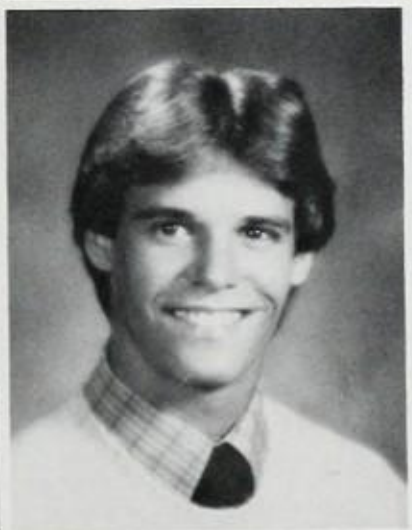
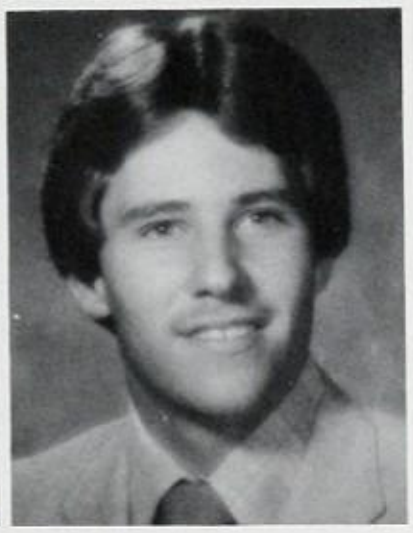
The "circle" is the ideal object to represent the Seniors. As graduation came around Seniors had completed the fullcycle of education; from elementary, to junior high, and on up to senior high. A number of individuals will enter another cycle by going to college to carry out their education; the others enter the cycle of life.

SENIORS







Above left corner: As Lisa Thornton (senior) and Jeff Bean (junior) talked, they discovered that the two of them had two major things in common: music and drama. With a cola in hand and a good friend to converse with, life just can't be beat --- The thoughts of Lisa Thornton. Above left: Who is that masked man??Why it is Bob Nikunen. That guy is no ordinary masked man, fore it was he, along with Tasha Piper, who added life to the pep rallies. Left: Lost in the depths of enthusiasm for spirit. Lisa Skaja tries to promote purple hair during Spirit Week. Unfortunate Rob Ukleya is stuck being the dummy. Above: Choosing between Don Lilly (bottom) and John Doran (top), which one is slightly camera happy? Which of the two is dazed and confused? Seniors, starting at the top, from left to right: Lee Adams, Gina Adolf, Teresa Adolf, Kim Akins, Shelley Albright, Stephanie Albright, Clint Alley, Brian Ames, Pamela Anderson, Rusty Armstrong, Kristi Arnesen, Tom Babbitt, Wayne Babst, Bryan Bacon, Lisa Balkovec, Mark Barber, Traci Barnes, Debbie Belek, Rick Bennie, Barry Black.

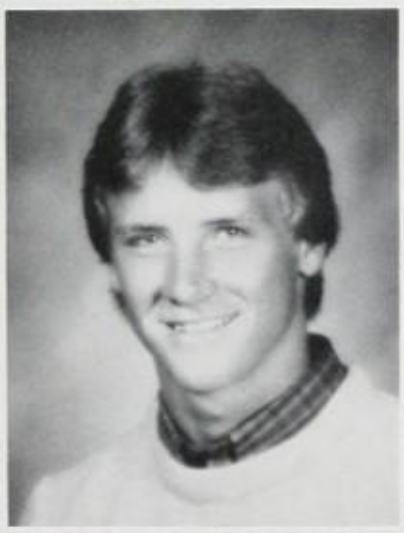
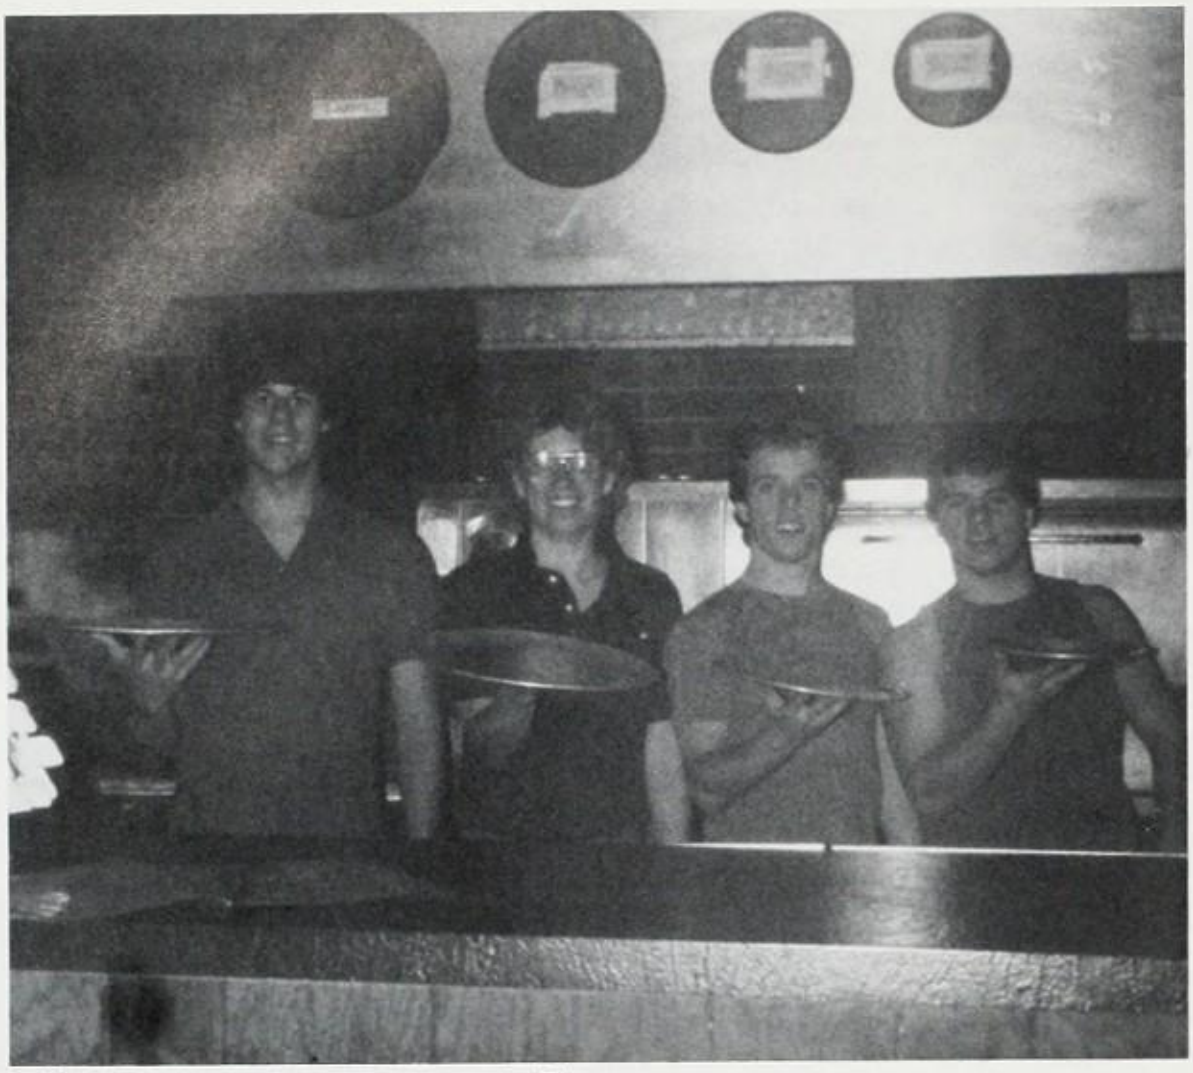
Above Left: Just ask Gordie Ringler, or anyone around him, what his favorite food is? His reply, "BANANAS!" As a matter of fact, on a normal school day during a normal pep rally, Gordie Ringler openly displayed his love of bananas. He remains the "the banana eating champ of Bellevue West" because he is the only one who has the ability to shove one right after the other into his mouth without making a mess. AND . . . . . Blindfolded!!! Lower left: Charemon Morgan, in an act of child-like play, tossed a mere M&M up into the air. While baffling the minds of many, she is still waiting for the M&M already descended, choosing a different route, via nasal passage?!?! Above: Looking closely into the lunchroom, the cameraman saw that a number of Seniors were eating food that was foreign to that of the normal every-day Bellevue West menu. The food: Big Macs from McDonalds. How it got there: Never to be revealed!!!!





Keeping the Traditions Alive

There are certain traditions the musicals at Bellevue West retain. Preshow pep talks, prayer, a family type atmosphere, love and support (to name a few).

Seniors have a major role in upholding these traditions. From the seniors, the other students see the importance in keeping the traditions alive.

Out of the fifty-one students who appeared in "Oliver", twenty-one were seniors. Being seniors, this show is their last high school performance. Although saddened that it must end, "The show must go on." Here at Bellevue West, the shows certainly do go on and are impressive as well.

Candids: Far left. You think this is a non-chalant model pose, actually Mike Marable is saying, "My tie is choking me." Middle, Brian Walther thanks you the student body for donating a total of $5.25 to his "I need good-looks fund." This page, bottom, Hawaiian craziness struck Melissa Dodenhof and Lara Snow before, during, and after the Hawaiian Dance. Class of '84

and there will be a loud cheer.
Also, tears of joy and sadness,
but still a smile
for getting thru this madness.
But soon the tears will stop flowing,
and separate ways we will be going.
The year will be gone long before we will ever forget the Class of EIGHTY-FOUR.

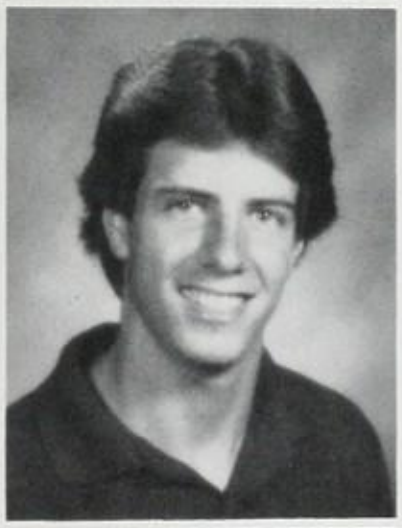
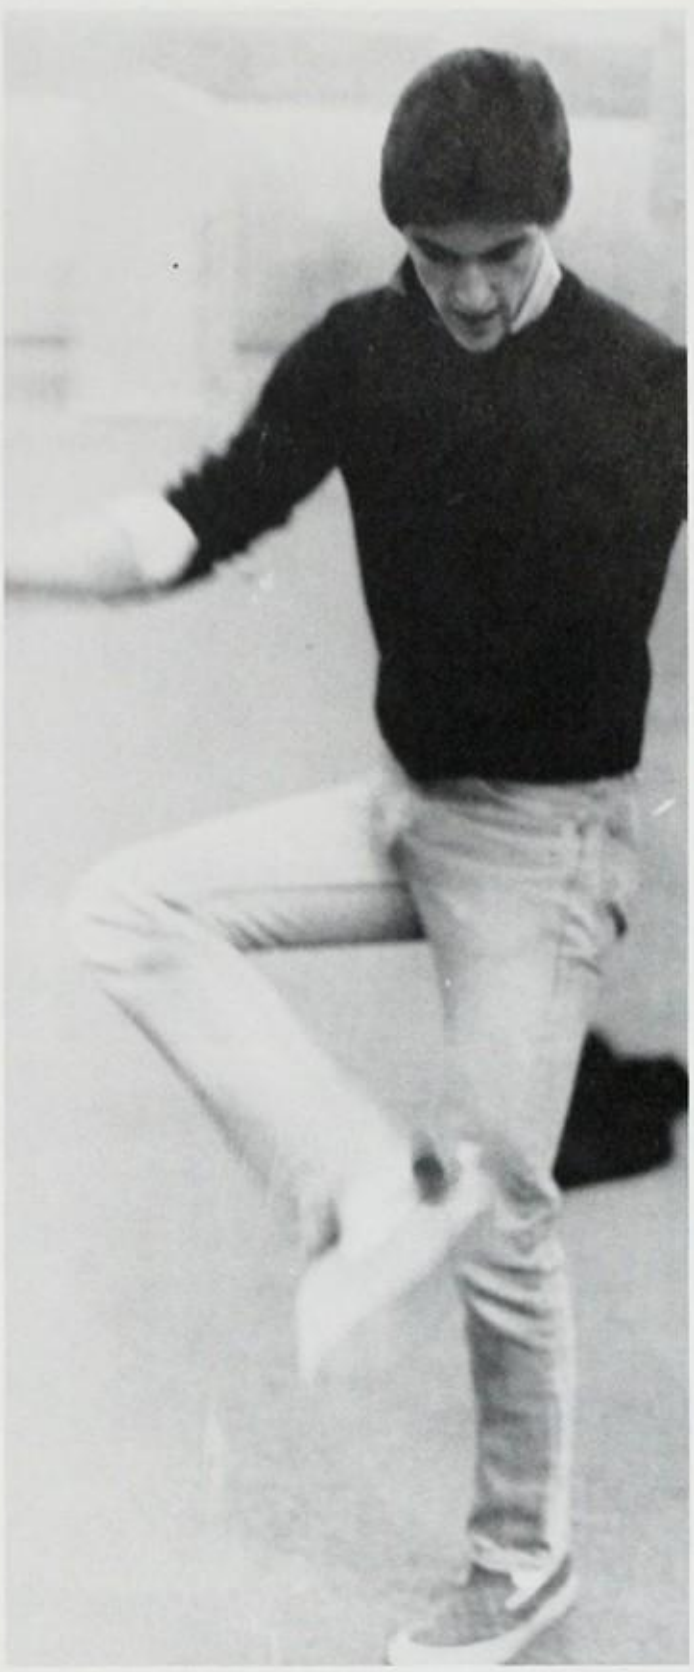
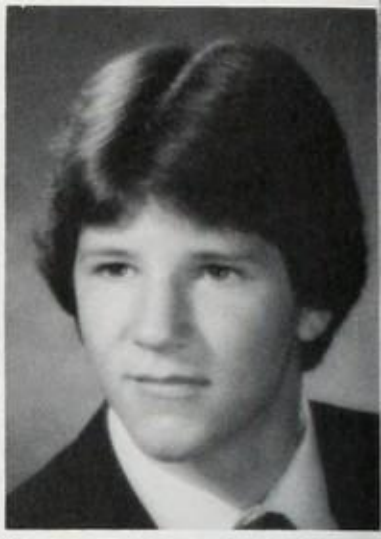
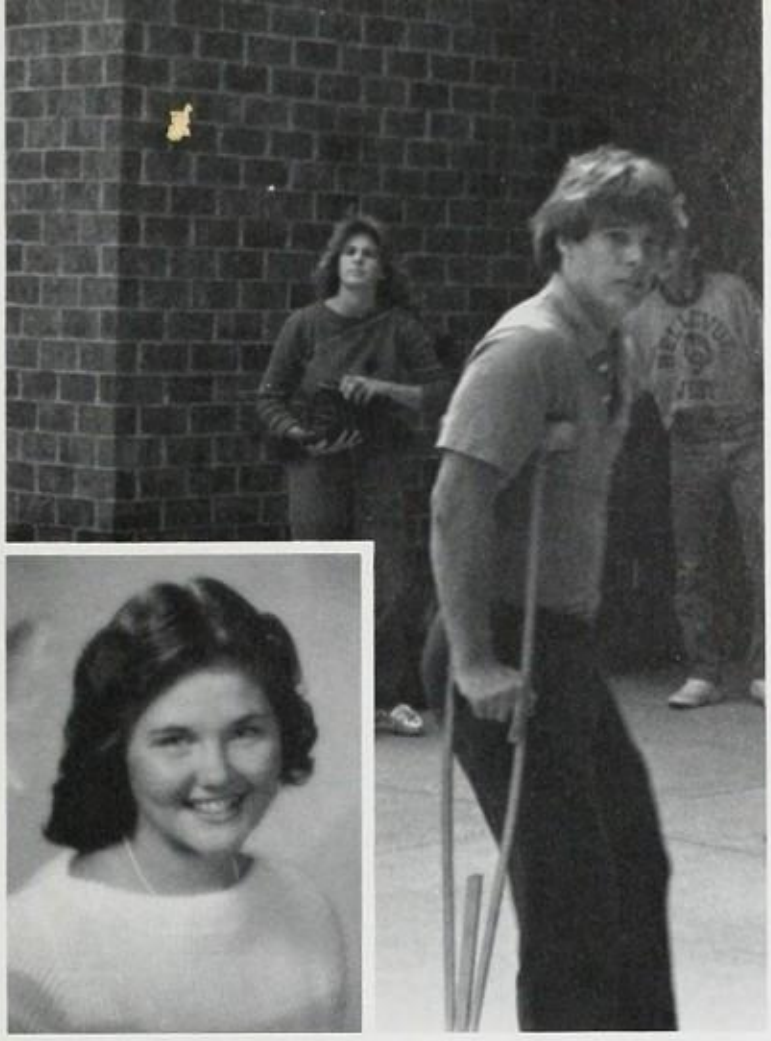
CANDIDS: Mrs. Wolford's second hour English class won the can food drive contest. Dinner at Godfathers, for the whole class was their reward. Inside the door of Bellevue West, Mrs. Wolford is your average senior English teacher, but take her out of the classroom and what do you have? A woman after old Jacks heart!

At the top of the next page, Frank Quinby and Joe Butson involved in a game of Hacky Sack. A new craze that hit just a few seniors this past year. The hacky sack is a small bean bag ball that operates by kicking it around and not letting it touch the ground. With his trusty pen in hand, Bruce Holmes will gladly autograph your yearbook. Cost, only a dollar per word.









For Aimee . . .
Aimee, my beloved best friend,
How can your death mean the end?
My truest friend in times of despair,
How often you showed me you really cared.
You left the earth at an early age,
But your life is actually turning the page.
Eternal bliss and everlasting love —
These are the things you'll find above.
My prayers and thoughts are with me always,
As always they will, for you have brightened my days!
A better friend I'll never find,
Because you are simply one-of-a-kind!
Your memories stay with me 'til your parting,
My fondness for you is merely starting.
As I sit in tears, thinking of the good times we've had,
I realize they were good, never bad.
Life goes on, so they say,
My expectations are high when comes the day . . .
I'll be with you again, hand in hand,
In the clouds, above all land.
As you see us now in time of grief,
You see it's hard to turn our cheek.
The pain is there we can't ignore it
Someone so dear is here no more.
Help us all to see through our tears,
Make it easier to ease our fears.
Your memories I'll keep alive,
In my heart and mind they will revive.
So long for now, I'll feel some pain,
But, 'O Joyful Day! I'll see you again!

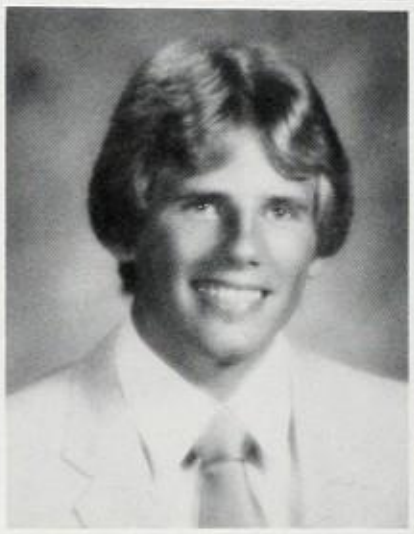
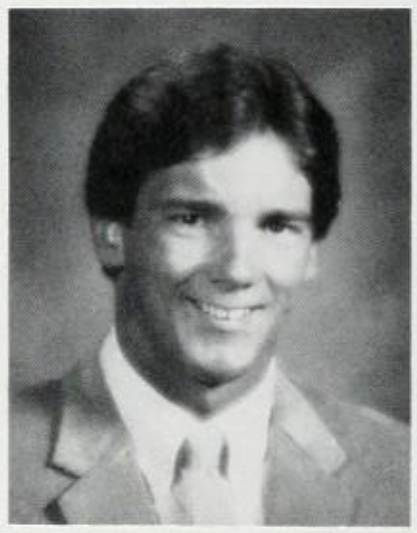
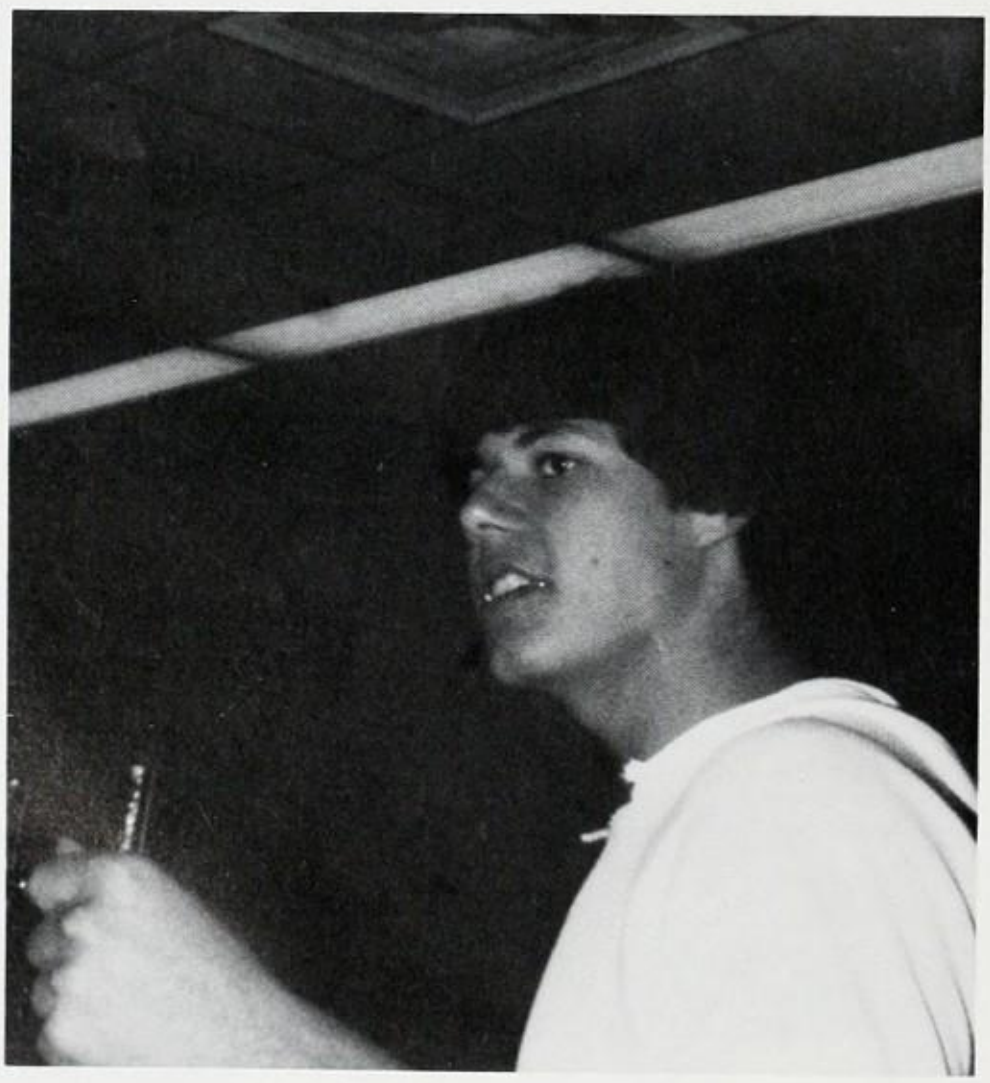
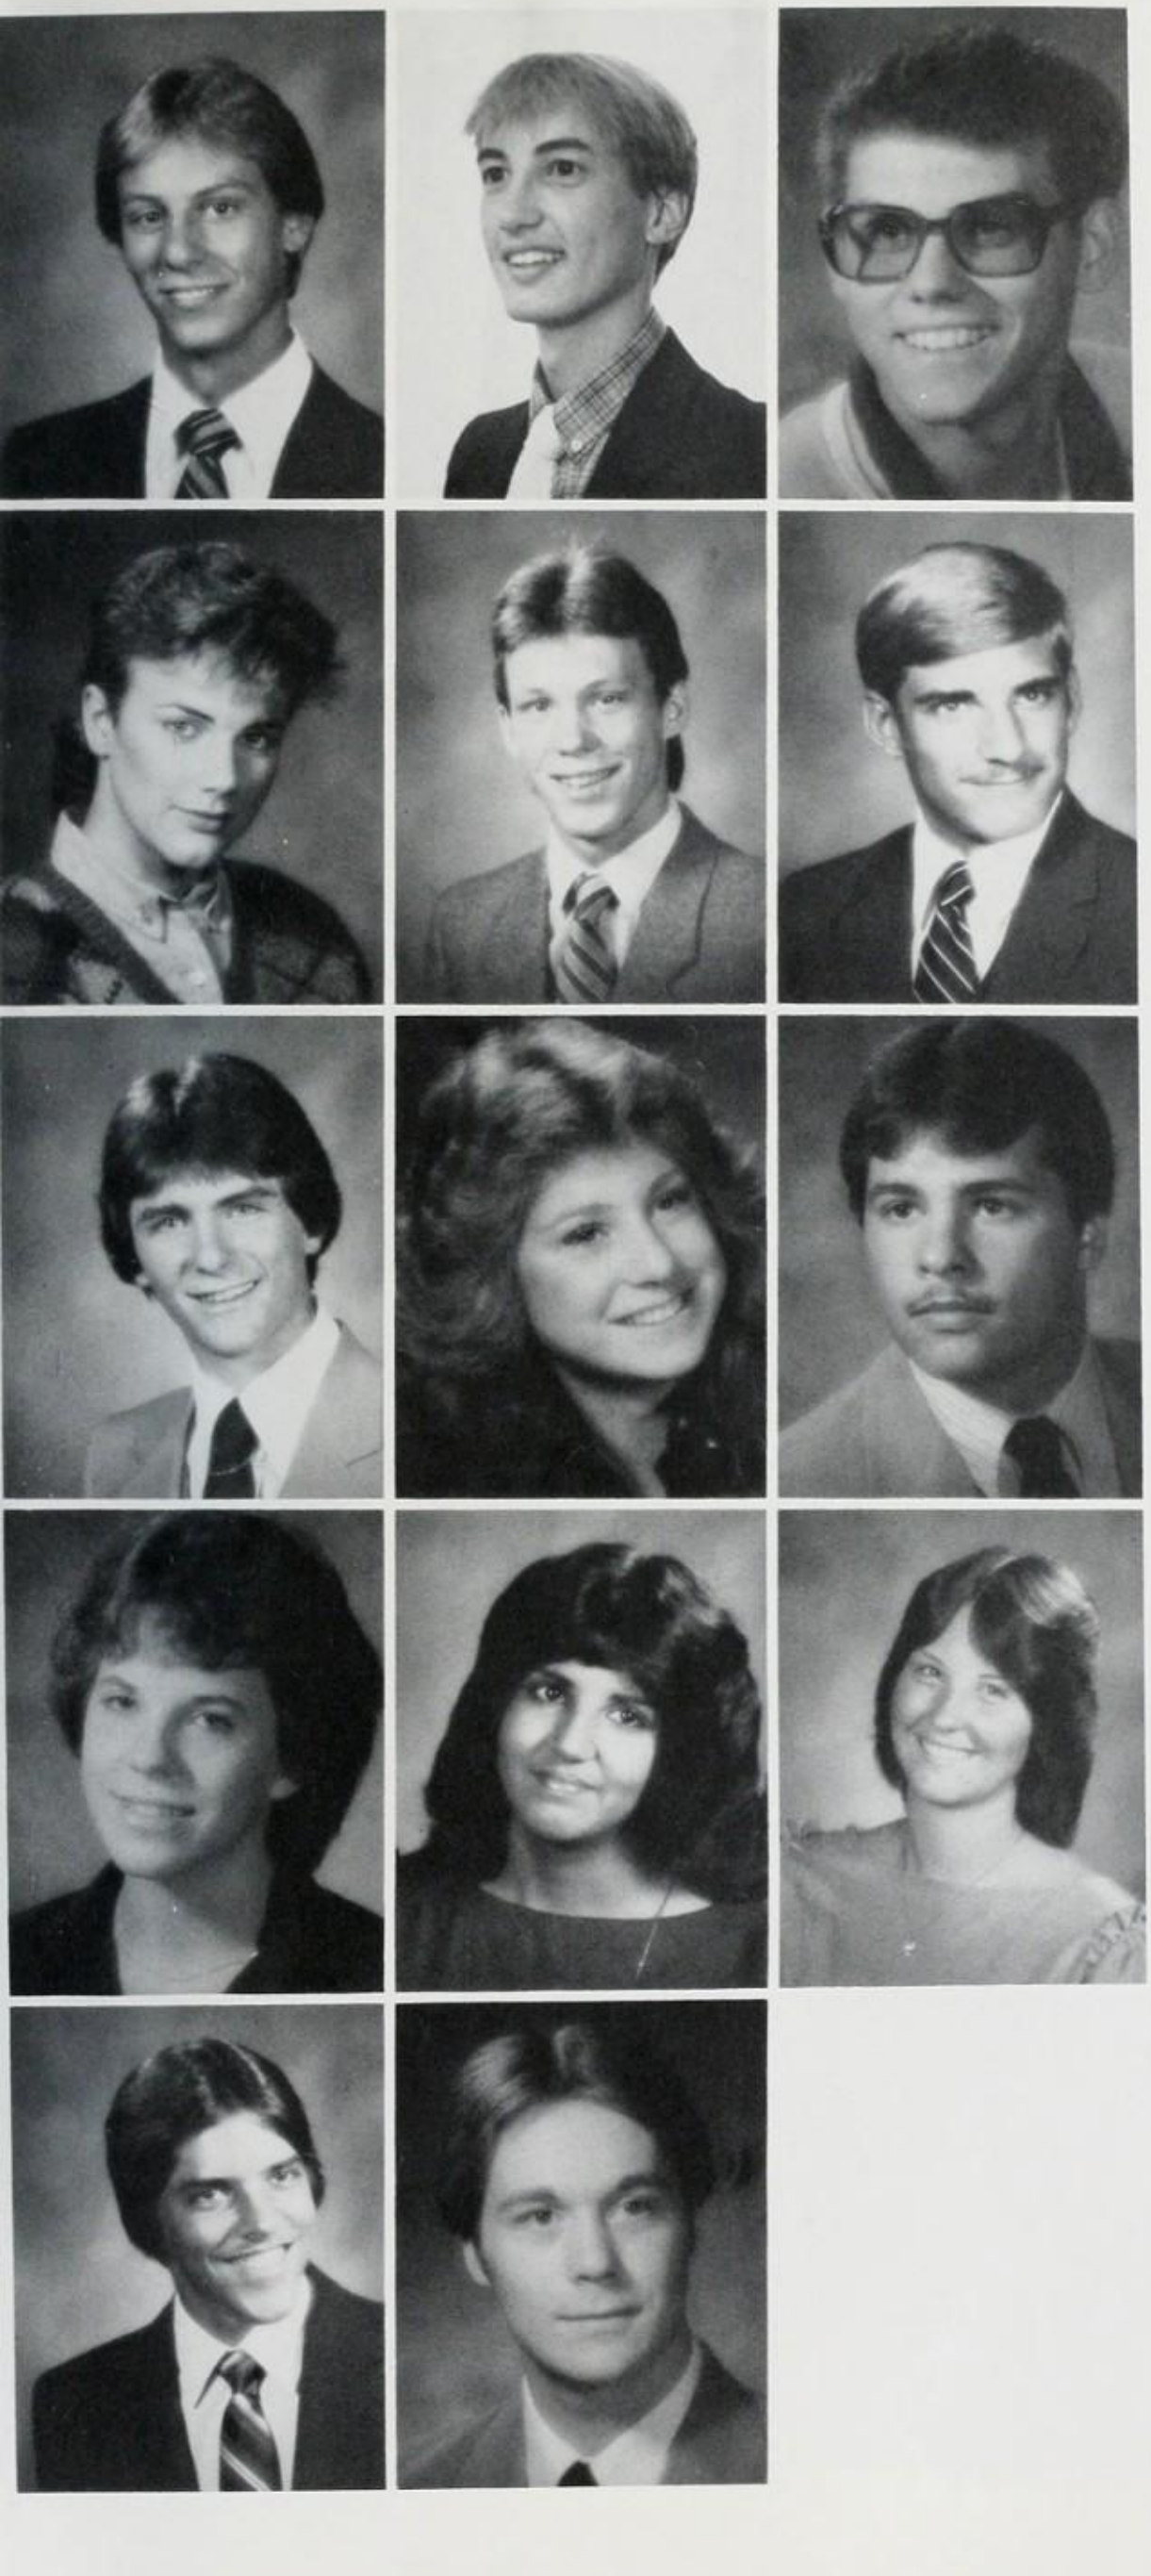
He finally mastered the art of walking with crutches and gazing into a camera.









Big Dreams Big Things!

Johnny wants to be a doctor. Kelly wants to ride in the Kentucky Derby, and Rob wants to be President of the United States. These are the dreams for the future.

Our dreams may include winning a gold medal, or being nominated for a political office, gaining friends or gaining confidence in ourselves.

Big dreams accomplish big things! Yet for big dreams to be obtained, goals must be drafted, initiated and accomplished. Setting a goal is the first step in accomplishing anything. Whether it be mowing the lawn or running a 10 kilometer race, you must have something to strive for.

If you don't dream, you will never know how far you can go.

Many hopes and dreams were realized as they were seen through your eyes.

You helped us make it through term papers, book reports, and semester tests. You always encouraged us to do our bests.

Now is it time for us to leave behind the games we once played, the assignments that were never fullfilled, and all the friends we have made. It is time to think about all that we have shared and all the times you cared enough to give your very best to us.

You have showed us what a friend can be at times, and made us believe in ourselves. Now we are free to face the world.

You've taken that test for the last time; the ringing of tardy bells is now just a memory. No more cafeteria lunches . . . or what seemed to be a lunch. No more football games, the curtains are down and your career as a high school performer is over. As you walk the halls of your school, you realize those times are gone forever.

Time brings change. At graduation, we marched down the aisle and knew that with all the memories there are some things that we never have to give up. Because life doesn't end with high school, the experiences do go on and friendship gained lasts a lifetime.

High school is not the end; it's our beginning. We are on our way, and eager to start our role as adults. For us it's a challenge.

One half of the base times height, you may recognize this formula for finding the area of a triangle but it also ties in with the junior class. The base of the triangle is schoolwork. Friends and the memories we have shared are the height. Multiply the height times half of the base, and you have the junior class.

Security Achieved in Junior Year

As Juniors, we began the school year feeling secure because we were not new to the school. We knew the teachers, routines, and what to expect from our classes. Some of us drove cars, had jobs, stayed out later on weekends, and found drawbacks in this new freedom. They found it was too expensive to drive themselves, but this problem was solved by carpooling. Those who had jobs found they did not have the time to go out with their friends like they used to, but the small amount of financial freedom it gave was worth it. A new sense of freedom was enjoyed throughout the Junior year.

Music Tastes Differ For Jrs.

Music is always changing, and it was no exception for the juniors. Different tastes in music ranged from the dancing beat of Michael Jackson to the heavy metal sounds of Def Leppard. While some students banged their heads with Quiet Riot, others wanted the uptown beat of Billy Joel. Other dominant music forces in 1983-84 included the Police, Duran Duran, and Van Halen. Still other students were hooked on the classics, and some preferred the "I like the Mountain Music" of Alabama and other Country singers. Overall, juniors listened to a wide variety of music and danced their way through the 1983-84 school year.

A square was chosen to represent the sophomore class and not because of the rest of the student's opinion. As sophomores, the first year of high school makes us work a little harder to accomplish our goals and be recognized. The four sides of the square represent the four aspects of a sophomore's life: first avoiding mean seniors and juniors; second homework; third having our parents drive us to school and have them meet us discreetly near the strip; and last, but definitely not least, social life.

Early Start for Involved Sophs

For many students the 1983-1984 school year began long before September. For some, the year began before last year ended.

Students came to West daily this summer. The sophomores in marching band and Thunderettes had the new experience of parades and early marching practices. The junior varsity cheerleaders had practices, preparing for their first games. The sophomores on the football, cross country, and gymnastics teams were getting ready for the upcoming seasons, not to mention those on the boys tennis and girls golf teams. Many sophomores also spent their summer improving driving skills in driver's education. Mostly the summer gave sophomores a chance to look forward to the upcoming year.

First Day at Bellevue West

The first day of school, August 29th, was a day the sophomores had anticipated all summer long. Students were seeing friends, they had not seen all summer.

The first day consisted of all the usual worries: What do I say? What do I wear? How do I act? Where do I go? Except this year was different. This was the first year of high school and sophs were no longer kings of the mountain, now the bottom of the heap.

It was a day for getting lost, getting new books, and trying to remember new locker combinations. It was a day of discovering what your teachers were like and also the name of that not-so-bad looking person sitting next to you in class. All in all the first day was tiring, exciting, and a day never to be forgotten.

First Task is Taking Jokes

The sophomore's first challenge this year was adjusting to no longer being the oldest students in the school. Instead, they found themselves being the subjects of all the jokes. Next, they had to learn to adapt to the more difficult schoolwork assigned in high school. More time was required to complete assignments and this was even more difficult because of all the activities in which to participate. The sophomores, though, met these challenges and learned quickly how to adjust to high school life.

Sophomores Show B.W. Spirit

As first quarter drew to an end, the sophomores were in the swing of things. By second quarter, students began to concentrate on their schoolwork even more. Thanksgiving vacation was extended due to an early snowstorm. December, the month some feel is the most boring, was spent in anticipation of the upcoming Christmas vacation. The month went by more quickly as sophomores watched and participated in the winter sports: basketball, swimming and diving, and wrestling. The sophomores showed talent and spirit at the games and meets, displaying how quickly they had learned the true meaning of Bellevue West spirit.

Sophs Adjust by Holiday Time

For a majority of the sophomores, adjusting to high school had basically set in by the holiday season. With vacation in mind the period between Thanksgiving and Christmas was brief. As the Christmas spirit filled the air, sophomores began to realize that Christmas break was near. Sophomores made the best of this break since it was just eight days long.

Upon returning from the holiday vacation period, sophomores anticipated semester tests January 17, 18, and 19, and they experienced open campus for the first time during test week. After the holiday vacation, there were fifteen long weeks of school with just three days off for teacher in-service until Spring break.

Will There Be School Today?

The weather, although it doesn't rule the school day, does play part in deciding if school should open and when. At the beginning of the 1983-1984 school year, the first week to be exact, classes were held for only half a day because of the soaring temperatures which were above one hundred every day of the week. Classes were only twnety minutes each, which made for a pretty good first week of the year for everyone.

In winter, another extreme in weather also comes into play with the school day. Instead of the temperatures being above a hundred, they were below zero for a longer period of time than it usually was in winters past. School officials had to decide if school should open as the weather conditions worsened. Students had only two extra days in which they could miss school without having to make up the lost days.

There is at least one thing teachers know inside out. They spend hours and hours in front of it every day, and they are helpless without it. How can a teacher function without the blackboard? That is why the teachers element is symbolized by the rectangle.

Schools Led by Superintendent

Triplett, Eight Member Board

A full calendar of administrative issues confronted the seven member board of education and the superintendent's staff at the central office this year. Six elected board members and an advisory member representing Offutt Airbase acted on proposals and recommendations at monthly Monday evening meetings made by the superintendent and his staff.

The superintendent and his staff administered the district's business from offices located at 2009 Franklin St. in downtown Bellevue. The superintendent and his staff coordinated the district's accounting and finance, curriculum and instruction, the food service, personnel and public information. Also located at the superintendent's office was the district print shop and student records.

Below are members of the Bellevue West Brass Choir who performed at the Superintendent's Christmas Tea at the central office, the brass choir director is Mr. Rod Schmidt. Mr. Jungers served as President of the board until Dr. Sullivan was elected in January; Mr. Reinhart was vice-president of the board first semester and Dr. Boyd was designated as vice-president in January.

Nation at Risk?

A Nation at Risk stated that the educational foundations of our society are being eroded by a rising tide of mediocrity, according to Principal Dr. Lloyd H. Boilesen.

Receiving the most student concern were recommendations calling for a longer school day or a longer school year, more vigorous subject content and more homework. Student reactions were negative. The State Task Force requiring students to earn 35 of the 36 minimum credits now required at West High.

The education process can be improved, and most students can learn more. Most students earn more than the minimum and homework develops skills, competence and knowledge and is job insurance for the future.

As you read this in 2003 A.D. ask the question: Are your kids getting a better education than you did?

Guidance Counseling Assists Students

Knowing Languages Results in Versatility

Bellevue West offers both average English, special need, reading and advanced classes. There are also classes for students in need of special help. Advanced placement classes prepare students for possible college credits. 90% of the seniors at Bellevue West take senior English even though they don't have too. This is a 10% increase since last year. Six English credits are required to graduate from high school.

We live in a world where it is necessary to understand, appreciate and tolerate the way people live in other parts of the world, according to Joe Guido, language department head. By learning a foreign language one can better understand the values and beliefs of other people. Understanding each other is necessary to live in peace with each other. Industry is always in need of professionally trained people able to communicate and promote products abroad so the U.S. can be competitive in the world market. Guido said, "Language enrollment at West this year was 322 and is increasing."

American Gov't Causes Headache

Most seniors seem to consider American Government as a punishment and as something which is meant to ruin their senior year. This class has to be passed in order to graduate, and this fact seems to bother most seniors. American History has to be passed, too, in order to graduate, but as most students take this class as juniors, it isn't looked upon in the same way as government.

Many seniors try to take government first semester because if they flunk, they can take it second semester and be able to graduate on time. Even though seniors really worry about government, according to counselor Steven Spears, a very small percentage actually fail and have to retake the class.

To help students pass, Government teacher James Kallemeyn offers his students the option to come back to retake a test if they fail. Not all students come back to retake the same test, however.

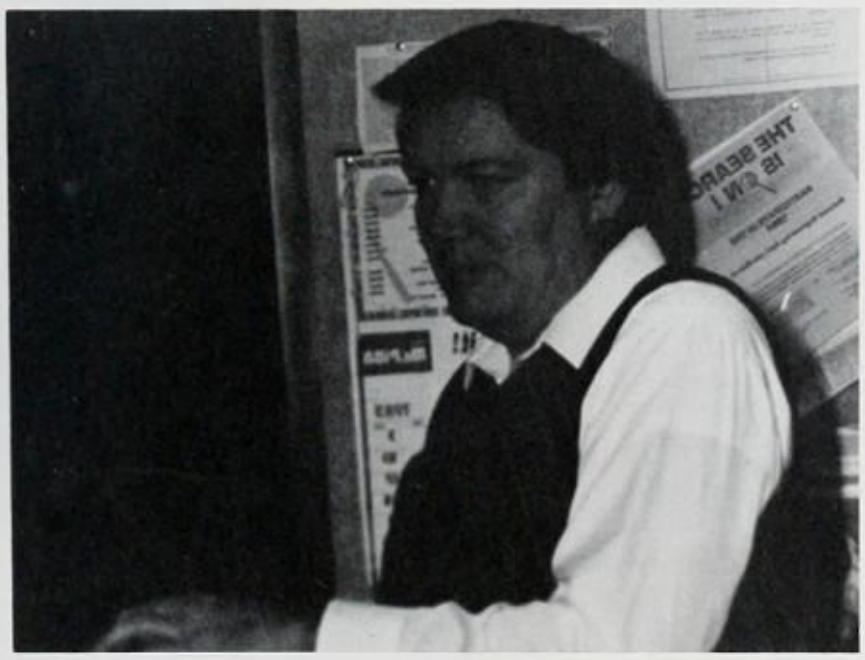
Biology Develops Life Understanding

The previous chairman of the science department, William Emrich, retired last year, and Roger Kelly assumed those duties this year. Fred Crow continued investigating how to make use of computers in science. Kevin Sindelar was the new teacher in science this year and taught biology.

The purpose of biology was to develop an understanding of the structure and function of living things on all levels. Equally important was the development of sensitivity to the interactions among all forms of life. Two objectives of physics were to develop problem solving techniques and communication skills. Juniors and seniors also took chemistry, which required a high level of reading skill, according to the program of studies booklet.



Driver's Ed

Driver's Education was a semester course designed to give the student practical operational knowledge of the car. This included basic driving fundamentals and techniques, proper attitudes, development of safe driving habits, and an understanding of related areas such as insurance and maintenance. The course included classroom sessions, actual driving once per week and driving simulator sessions. Students needed to be at least 15 and have a valid Nebraska learner's permit in order to enroll in the class.

20 Computers Newly Acquired

The business department got 15 new microcomputers this year plus software. Computers were used in typing, marketing, and accounting. Students learned how to do accounting in the traditional way first and then used computers. Memory typewriters were also something students could learn to use, and this would benefit students later in their business careers. Students taking business courses also had the opportunity to type other compositions using the word processing programs.

The math department also added five new TRS-80 Model IV computers, and a new advanced programming course was also offered. Steve Willett was the new teacher in the math department, he taught geometry, algebra and basic math.

Art Classes Showed Decline in Enrollment

Even though communicative, creative and industrial arts, music and home economics were not required classes many students elected to study in these areas. The industrial art department was the most popular area with 250 students enrolled. Communicative arts and home economics tied at about 110 students, while creative arts had nearly 75 students enrolled. About 60 students enrolled in vocal music and 100 in instrumental.

Classes offered in industrial arts included mechanical and architectural drawing, metals, woods, electricity, electronics and auto mechanics. Communicative arts offered communications, verbal/non verbal communications, verbal communications/radio and TV, forensics, debate, drama and journalism. Home Ec. offered sewing, clothing, foods, housing and interior design, child development and adult living. Creative arts classes included two dimensional art, three dimensional art, pottery, drawing, painting, printmaking and sculpture. Senior art thesis was available to about 10 students. Music offered chorus, West Connection, music theory, solo voice, band and individual instrumental instruction.

All these classes developed skills, but the enrollment was slightly down this year as students tended to take more science and language classes this year.

Phys. Ed. Adds Health Unit

Physical Education encompassed 25 activities which included lifetime sports, team games, cardiovascular fitness and aquatics. New this year was a health unit which gave information about diseases, drugs, smoking, personal hygiene, physical fitness and first-aid. Two credits in P.E. was required in order to graduate unless credit was earned through JROTC.

ROTC is a way of life and had a total of 92 students enrolled, says sophomore Heidi Keesee. It teaches you discipline and is a good step on the way to a career in the military.

While the teachers took care of the intellectual side of the students, the nurse, Blanche Weber, took care of the physical needs.

The library does not consist solely of books any more. Bill Mankhe, librarian, took care of magazines, video tapes, T.V.'s and some study hall students. He had considerably more to do with students than most people thought as he helped students find books for papers, and he held orientation classes for sophomores and juniors.

The resource program was designed to help students who had difficulty reaching their full potental. Students in this program were not among those considered to be slow-learning, but had average learning abilities. It helped the students with such classes as language, math, history and typing. It was a federally founded program and part of the special service program in the district counseled by Mary Ingwerson.

Stitches That Held the Day Together

The seven secretaries assisted the principals in areas such as athletics and activities, student transcripts, attendance and budget. There was also a receptionist, a counseling receptionist and a secretary handling the principals' correspondence, scheduling of substitute teachers and the activity accounts.

Eight aides worked in the different resource rooms and helped teachers in the business, computer resource room, math, vocal music accompanist, English, science, home ec., arts resourse, social studies, foreign language, reading and the library.

Three of the eleven cafeteria workers came early in the morning to start cooking lunch. The rest came in later and helped prepare the lunches, and with serving and cleaning. On a regular day, 400-425 students bought full lunches; while on pizza-days, 550 student bought full lunches. Cheeseburgers were also popular. Several students bought just french fries, cookies, shakes or other single items.

The eighteen custodians did far more than just cleaning the cafeteria and the commons. Some of them, in fact, worked on the building when it was built and stayed as custodians. All the snow this winter caused problems for those trying to move the snow. Lee Pettingill was the head custodian and directed the seventeen member crew. The nightcrew cleaned the classrooms, and a daycrew cleaned the downstairs facilities; such as, the commons and the cafeteria. One custodian handled most minor electrical and door lock problems.

Girl Runner Highlights Otherwise Weak Season

The bright spot on the team was sophomore Beth Kawecki. "She was the only state meet qualifier and she ran the district course in 16:30, ten seconds faster than any girl ran last year," commented Coach Ken Kardell. This was a rebuilding year for cross country, but the team was young and Kardell expects them back for the 84-85 season.

The team overall had a dismal season losing the majority of its meets. Abraham Lincoln downed the Thunderbirds 20-40. In cross country the team with the lowest score wins. They lost to South 16-47 and to North 21-34, and were toppled by Millard North 19-38.

The girls faired a little better and the scores were much closer than the boys team. The girls forfeited their first match to A.L. because they lacked enough runners and lost to South 21-31. They lost in a squeaker to Millard North 27-28 and by forfeit to Omaha North.

Top right standing. Wade Buxton, Robert McMahon, Shelly Loeffler, Angie Dilda, Teresa Smith, Steve Morton, Steve Kriese and Coach Ken Kardell. Sitting are Beth Kawecki, Jim Wojtas and Renea LaFever. Two Young Golfers Provide Good Future

The Girls Golf Team finished its dual season 4-2. They also did well in invitationals. The big standouts this year were freshman Ann Guiberson and junior Carolyn Nethers, according to Coach Simmons. Both girls consistently shot between the high thirties to the middle forties. At the Girls Golf State Tournament, Nethers finished seventh, while Guiberson finished ninth.

"The big emphasis this year was placed on forming a team so Carolyn Nethers wouldn't have to play by herself. Last year we didn't have a team and Carolyn had to play golf with the Bellevue East Golf Team", stated Coach Simmons. All of the team members are returning except senior Vicki Boepple, which means that the golf team should be strong for next year, he said.

Gymnastics Team Has Losing Season

It was a bleak year for the Bellevue West gymnastics teams, losing such members as Brian Trentman, Matt Williams and Pam Hill. The girls team had a losing season even with the help of a young freshman, Jennifer Kinego, who took 2nd on the beam and 6th in the all around competition at State. The girls team also lost a veteran, Kristen Maiorka who moved during the end of the season.

The boys team also had a tough year under the leadership of Tom Kokes. The boys lost most of their matches but this was after a rebuilding year for them. According to Coach Kevin Sindelar the team should be commended for their effort and Coach Al Wenstrand hopes to see many out for the teams in 84-85.

Varsity Sets Record

The girls varsity volleyball team finished with a disappointing record of 6-12. It should be noted, however, that Bellevue West put together a very good varsity volleyball team this year. Several of the members set school records. Traci Barnes set a record for the most kill blocks in a season and the most season spikes. Lisa Plambeck set a school record with most volleyball sets, and Carol Klug set a record with the highest volleyball setting percentage. The varsity team finished third this year in their district and third in their division. The volleyball team only lost one member, senior Traci Barnes this year.

Comeback Propelled By J.V. Enthusiasm

The girls junior varsity volleyball team finished 5-6. The standouts for J. V. according to Coach Steve Lebedz were sophomores Pam Jenney, Jean Kallman, Carrie Olsen and Michelle Wolfe. The girls made great improvement this year. The team's trademark was the comeback. Several times the girls were down by large margins and they came back to win.

Against Millard North the girls lost the first game and were down in the second 2-14, and they came back to win 16-14, 15-4 and the match. "The only disadvantage that Bellevue volleyball teams have," stated Coach Lebedz, "is that we started playing volleyball against other area teams in the ninth grade while the Omaha teams started in the seventh grade, so we are always two years behind."

Team Marks Record Season

The varsity football team finished the year with a 7-2 record.

"We had a fine year and I was very pleased with the team's performance. I feel that we were strong this year because the football players were more team oriented than concerned about being individual standouts," commented Head Coach Jerry VanWaart.

The varsity's two losses were to Omaha Northwest and to Omaha South. The heart-breaking second loss to South, 25-20, eliminated West from the state playoffs. West did not accumulate enough points in the playoff system to qualify for post season competition even though they were ranked fourth in the state by the Omaha World-Herald at the time.

Coach VanWaart stated, "Two of our team members received all-state honors. Jon Marco was honored as an all-state punter while Mike May was honored as a second team linebacker." VanWaart commented that an indication of a good team is when many of the team's members are mentioned in the newspapers or when team members receive honors.

The 1983-84 record of 7 wins and 2 losses ties the school record set last year for the best record of any Bellevue West varsity team since the school opened.

Teams Have Winning Season

The J.V. team had a winning season this year finishing with a record of 6-2. However, many of the players shared J.V. duty as well as varsity duty. Mike Friedman led the conference this year in interceptions and Steve Brown, a sophomore, led the J.V. team with 41 tackles.

"The team has really matured in their playing ability as well as their physical maturity," said Coach VanWaart, the varsity head coach.

This year the J.V. team surpassed the 82-83 record of 2-7.

Sophomores Are Winners!

The sophomore team had a winning season also this year finishing with a 5-2 record. At the beginning it looked like they would have an undefeated season but they lost two late season games to destroy these hopes. Some of the leading tacklers were Max Essery with 41, Tony Ramirez with 28 and Tyrone Gurganus had 27.

Varsity's Record Is 9-10!

The Bellevue West varsity team record was 9-10 this year.

One game that will be remembered, however, was Bellevue West against Omaha Benson. It moved at an exciting pace both mentally and physically. The fans cheered the team on, however, to win after 4 overtimes 75-72. The game ended up lasting for two hours.

Many basketball events will be remembered by this year's students.

Against Bellevue East, Lawrence Jackson slam-dunked giving West bragging rights until next year's confrontation. This years players will be remembered not only by their coaches, family and friends but, by the entire student body of 1983-84.

J.V., Reserves Finish As Combined Team

This years junior varsity and reserve teams were made up of one junior (Roy Holeyfield) and all the rest sophomores. This year, the two teams combined to form one large team that played both the junior varsity games as well as the reserve games. The team's record this year was 6-6.

Tough Schedule Hurts Wrestlers

The varsity wrestling team finished the season with a record of 3-7 and the junior varsity finished at 6-4. The wrestlers finished fifth at the Fremont Invitational, sixth at the West Invitational, fifth at the Sioux City Invitational, and fifteenth out of thirty-one teams at the state wrestling tournament.

"The teams had a pretty good season, but we lacked the depth that we have had on most of our earlier wrestling teams. Usually we have about thirty wrestlers at the end of the season, but this year we had only twenty-two. Also we had a very tough schedule. We had to wrestle the top three teams in the state this year: Columbus, Omaha Tech and Millard North, "stated J.V. wrestling coach Les Kinney.

Even though the team was slim in numbers, it was not without individual standouts. Tom Babbitt, at 5 lbs., finished fifth at the State tournament and compiled the most team points with 174. Babbitt also had the best team record of 29-7, and the most takedowns with 51. At 185, Jon Marco also finished fifth in state, had a record of 19-9 and was second in team points with 131. Pat Moore at 138 had the most escapes with 28, and he ended with a record of 20-12. One hundred and sixty-seven pounder Tom Ditoro led the team in reversals with 25, while Tracey Leiber at 105, finished the season leading the team with 29 near falls.

Seniors Jon Marco and Tom Babbitt both finished fifth at the state wrestling tournament. Babbitt and Marco also finished the season one and two in leading the wrestlers in total team points.

Girls Teams Have Rough Season

The girls varsity and J.V. basketball teams had a rough season this year. The varsity team finished with a record of 1-16, while the J.V. finished at 1-15. Both the varsity coach Lloyd Russo and the J.V. coach Larry Anker felt that the reason for the teams' disappointing performance was due to the lack of team experience and to decreases in school enrollment as compared to the larger Omaha teams. The Omaha teams start J.V. players in the ninth grade as compared to Bellevue West which starts its players off in their sophomore year. Also, the Omaha area teams have intense summer practice sessions while most of the Bellevue West girls do not. These sessions give the Omaha area teams extra experience that yields better results. As coach Anker put it, "While we are teaching the girls how to dribble and shoot, the Omaha teams are working on offensive and defensive strategies."

Both coaches felt that the teams practiced very hard and that they were a very fun group to work with.

Swimmers Stroke to .500 Season.

The swimming and diving closed out the season this year with the boys finishing 4-4, while the girls finished the season 4-3. The teams, however, were much smaller with the absences of such outstanding members as two time state champion and all American diver Glen Galemmo, and swimmers John Dubay ad Mary Younkers. The boys team was led by senior divers Frank Quinby and John Pflugrath, both of whom qualified for state, and junior swimmer Doug MacCraw. The girls team was led by diving state qualifier Kathy Zimmer and swimmer Sue Stamp.

Team coach Jo Heckel stated that the team's smaller size hurt them somewhat this year, but the team worked hard to get in gear for the state swimming meet.

At the state meet, the team faired pretty well. The girls 400 freestyle relay consisting of Kris Guerrero, Angie Humphrey, Carolyn Nethers, and Cathy Seaman, finished tenth, while Sue Stamp broke the school record in the 100 meter breaststroke. John Pflugrath finished ninth in the diving, while Frank Quinby finished second, and qualified for all American status. It should also be noted with great pride that the men divers have remained undefeated in dual meets over the last seven seasons compiling an impressive record of 68-0.

Student activities parallel the student's curriculum and their future. Activities help build mutual support within groups as the vertical parallel lines help to support the horizontal parallel lines. The struggles are often the beginnings of maturity. Laughter, fatigue, compassion, and love, you will find throughout the pages of activities.

In using the parallelogram to represent activities we link together our high school years and find independence. As one era of our life ends, another begins.

ACTIVITIES

Success

The Student Council had another successful year. The council raised over $2,000 for homecoming, which was its main project for the first semester. The council sold candy, held two dances, and sold concessions to cover the costs.

Other projects included a campaign to reinstate the five minute passing period, which was successful, and a canned food drive. The food drive collected about 2400 cans, which were distributed to the needy.

The highlight of the year was the state convention, where the council received an award for having the best scrapbook, which is used to judge the council's performance during the year.

Student council members also held an intercouncil exchange with Bellevue East and Papillion, worked on the Red Cross blood drive, and held a school talent show. It was a busy year.

Forensics And Debate

Forensics, the speech club, had a new sponsor this year, Mr. Jay Worden. The club travelled to UNL, Lincoln Southeast, Millard North, Creighton Prep, Marian, Bryan and Bellevue East. Tasha Piper won a first place award in poetry at Millard North. Jeff Bean and Lee Adams won first place in duet acting at Creighton Prep. The forensics team competed in the following categories: informative speaking, extemperaneous speaking, oral interpretation of prose, duet acting, impromptu speaking, original oratory and poetry reading.

Debate was designed to help people become effective speakers. There were two types of debate, standard academic and Lincoln-Douglas style. Standard academic was comprised of a two member team. The team prepared both sides of a topic or resolution. Lincoln-Douglas style debate was an individual event. One person prepared a speech for and against a topic. This years's topics dealt with the justice system. Perry Utley won several first place awards in Lincoln-Douglas debate at Lincoln S. E. and UN at Lincoln. The team traveled to Millard South, Lincoln S. E., Sioux City, Bryan, Westside, Marian, Watertown, S. D., and Augustana, a college in Iowa.

Varied Functions Dominate Clubs

The Latin Club, the Foreign Language Club and the National Honor Society have each performed a different function this year.

The Latin Club, which is affiliated with the Junior Classical League, had meetings that were generally for the purpose of preparing for competitions. Their competitions were in various categories of Latin. They also had what is called a "certemen" which is a type of quiz game.

The Foreign Language Club has been primarily a social activity. Students joined to be associated with others that shared common interests. They had a certain goal this year: to promote interest in a Foreign Exchange Wall. This wall, across from the Wall of Champions, is to be used as a remembrance of the students that had come from abroad.

The National Honor Society was a very active group this year. Their fundraisers included a Goodfellow's drive, the result of which, $350, was used for needy families and was sponsored by the Omaha World-Herald.

Raffle Lifts VICA, 60 in Magazine

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) encouraged industrial arts students at bi-monthly meetings. The club held a raffle in March to raise money for state competitions in auto mechanics, welding, metals, woods, and drawing. The prizes awarded in the raffle consisted of a first place patio set-a bench and a chair, which was made in by the Auto Mechanics II class. Second prize was a Bellevue West Thunderbird clock, third prize was a weather station, and fourth prize was a Nebraska clock all of which were made by students.

Innervisions is the creative writing magazine to which students contributed poetry, short stories, essays, and artwork. This year's Innervisions staff sponsored contests to promote art, poetry, and prose contributions. The winners of these contests received a monetary award, recognition at honors night, and publication of their work in the Innervisions annual magazine, published in May. There were over 200 entries and of these, 60 were actually published in the magazine.

DECA Busy at Work.

DECA, Distributive Education Clubs of America, was open to any junior or senior in either Marketing or Marketing II. DECA helped the student's knowledge of the business world. In DECA, students learned and also had fun. Bellevue West hosts DECA Districts. At DECA Districts, students competed in various career fields such as advertising, finance and credit, apparell and accessories, or an overall category such as general merchandising.

In February, DECA sponsored Free Enterprise Week, to promote ideas for creating a business, using our democratic form of government. This proved very successful. In order to publicize the events, marquees displayed messages, local restaurants used paper placemats, three local banks stuffed their monthly bill statements with information telling about Free Enterprise Week.

At times this year, DECA sold M&M's, cheese and sausage, and sold donuts, milk and juice in the morning in order to raise money for its various projects, including DECA Districts, the DECA competition in Lincoln, and the National DECA Convention in Kansas City.

SERVICE EDUCATION PROGRESS

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS AMERICA

Getting Involved

The 1984 FBLA theme was "Getting Involved", and that's what the Bellevue West FBLA members did.

Among many other activities, they participated in the Fall Leadership Conference in Colorado Springs, where they attended seminars pertaining to decision making, physical fitness, wardrobe, and others dealing with the betterment of an individual interested in a business career.

The main project for FBLA was Careers Week. They held activities such as a dress-up day, faculty/student breakfast and a careers night, where schools from the Omaha area were invited for a pot-luck dinner and entertainment provided by West Connection.

This years FBLA was a large group. "Those members of the club that got involved, grew both in leadership and cooperation," according to sponsor Mrs. Lori Grant.

New In The Neighborhood

A new word and organization was introduced to Bellevue West this past year. The meaning was as new as the name "Key Club" --- a club of students interested in helping their school and community through voluntary service, according to club organizer Jeff Bean.

Though new, this wasn't a hinderance. The members involved themselves with activities such as a snowball dance following a basketball game, a dance at Chap School, they planned a $500 senior scholarship, they started a PEER dynamics program, for Positive Educational Experience Through Relationships, according to club sponsor Ron Habrich.

"Caring . . . Our Way of Life" is the motto that key club members feel most appropriate, and the theme for the 1983-84 year was "Confront Confusion-Discover Direction."

Lots Of Practice

What does it take to make a show or song the best it can be? Lots of practice! The time spent in class is not enough. Independent practice and after school rehearsals are necessary requirements for both West Connection and Triple Trio.

West Connection is a song and dance group. To the beat of the song they are singing, they add dance steps that express the song in a unique easy way. This group consists of 8 girls, 8 guys, a piano player, a drummer, and a bass guitar player.

At the right, practicing a dance routine are Kim Mullins and Lonny Keller. Directly below is Don Reimer showing Lara Fyfe a new step as Kari Groth, Chris Schuttler and Vicki Tobias listen to the instructions.

Triple Trio, on the other hand, does not dance, but you should hear them sing! Among the selection of songs performed this year were "Kiss Me In The Rain," "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," and "The Sensational 60's". The nine girls in this group range from first and second soprano to alto, and instead of spending some time learning dance steps, they spend their time learning the different parts of the music.

1984 proved to be a successful year for both Triple Trio and West Connection.

Bellevue West Presents

OLIVER

"Oliver" was presented as the school musical in the fall of 1983. Nearly each of the five performances was sold out which filled the auditorium with enthusiastic spectators.

Leisha Hailey, a seventh grader at Logan Junior High, played the leading role of Oliver. A member of the cast, Tasha Piper, commented, "Her big brown eyes and innocent manner captivated the audience at every performance." There were several junior high school students that participated in this production.

Many dedicated hours went into this production; practices were scheduled after school as well as on Saturday and Sunday. Although voices were hoarse, the students in the musical, as well as those who built props and managed lights, gave their all to make this show a success.

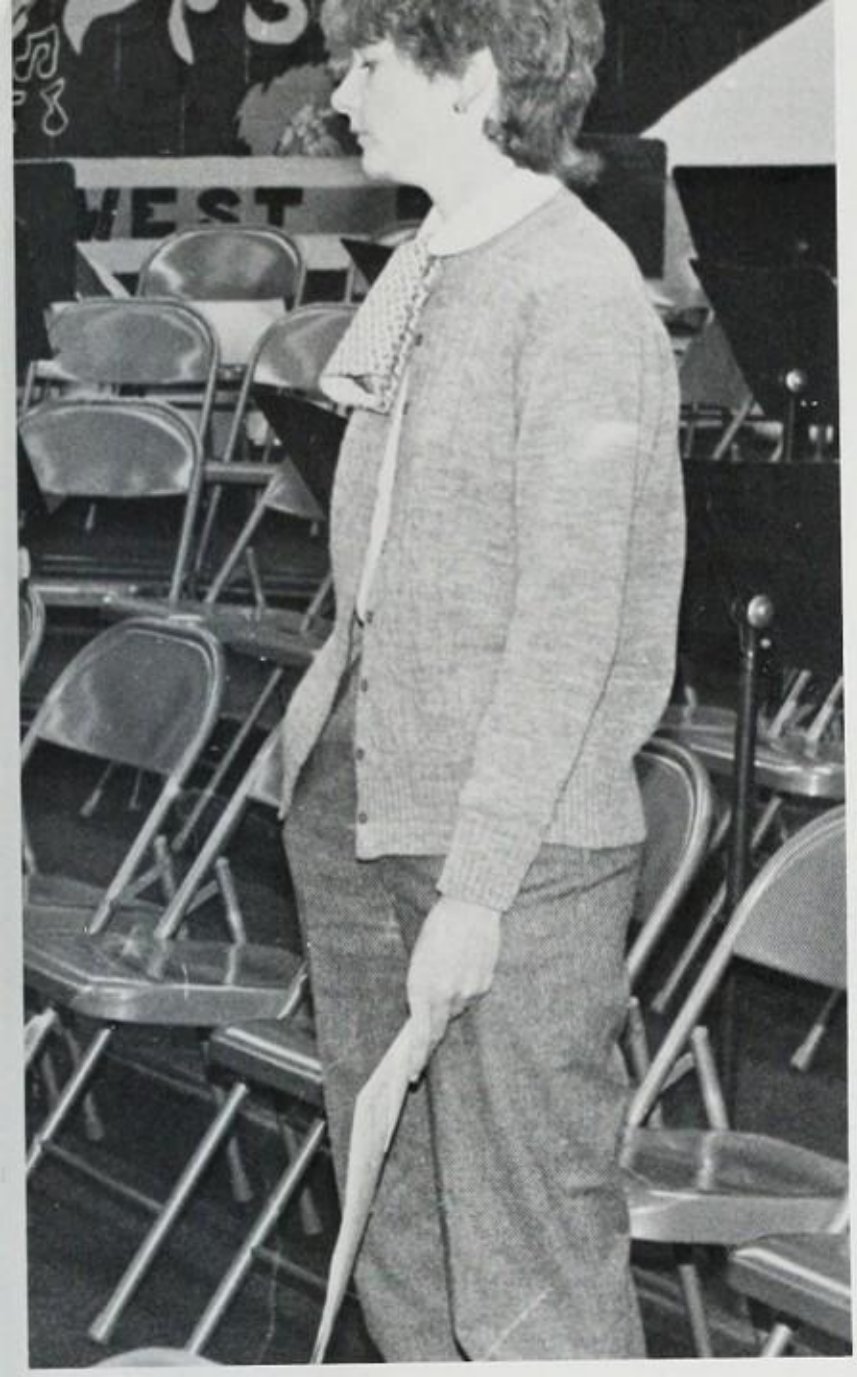
13 - Pep Band - Home Game



From top left: Laura Mahagan plays the piano for stage band. The Bellevue West stage band consists of five trumpets, five trombones, five saxaphones, two french horns, a drummer, a piano player, a guitarist, and a bass guitarist all under the direction of Rod Schmidt. At the last home football game the seniors expressed how much they appreciated Mr. Schmidt by dedicating the all-famous band song, "We love you, Rodney!" Sophomore, Scott Saunders displays his musical talent. Six trombones led the big parade at the Grand Island Marching Band Competition. Brad Thompson flashes his smile which any female band member could easily fall for. Left: It's too early for Ms. Mundy, the student teacher for the first semester of school, as she listens to the stage band warming up at 7:15 in the morning. Below: Mr. Schmidt directing the Brass Choir at the Superintendents Christmas Tea.

Sharleen,
I hope you've enjoyed band this year, and good luck in your new school next year.

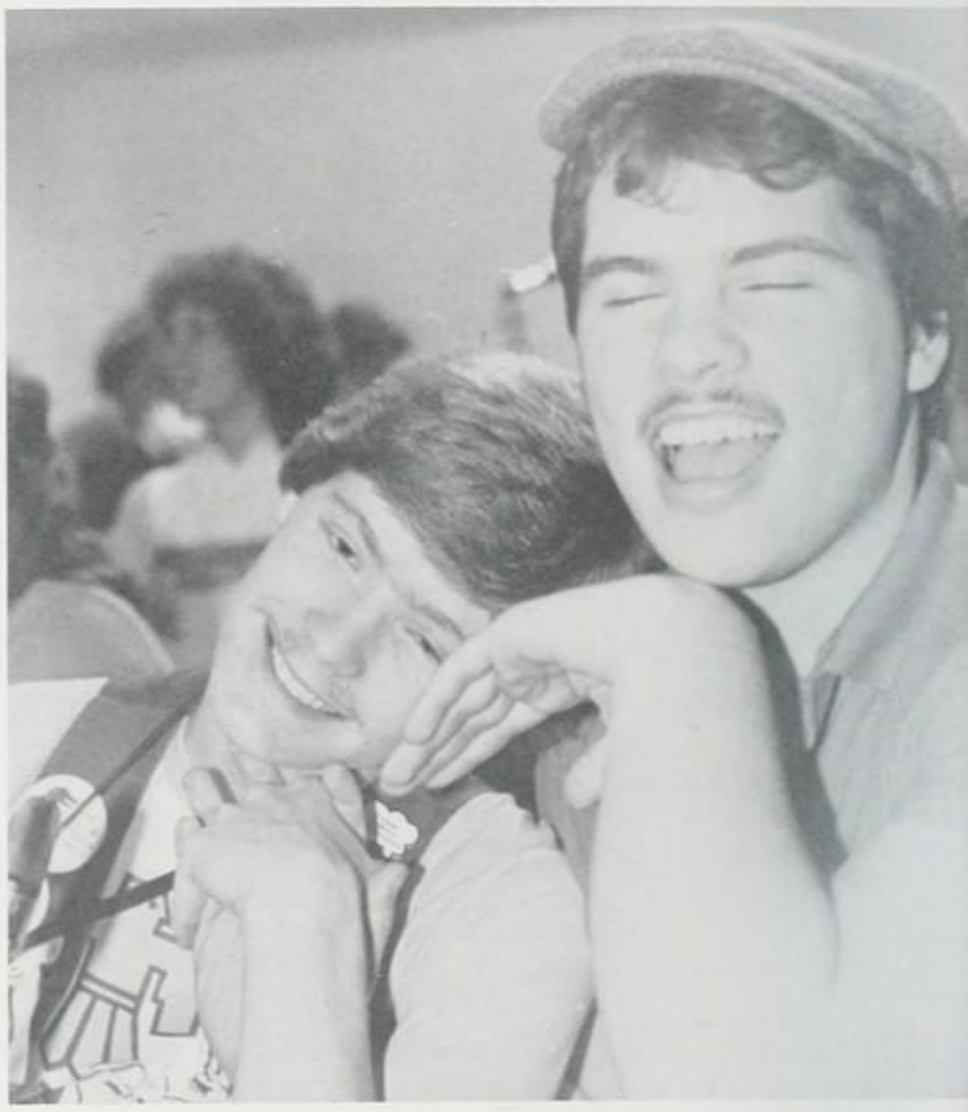
From top to bottom. Some band members enjoy a ride to great St. Nick during the holiday season. The band shows off their Picasso skills at the annual paint party prior to the Grand Island competition. Gregg Thompson forgets the notes as he eyes a prospect crossing the court. Rick Hale and Gordie Ringler demonstrate band member unity. Shelly Loeffler has trouble keeping to the beat of the music, and the band plays on.



B.W. Band Holds Up the Traditions

This year's band held up the tradition of excellence. The marching band attended three marching contests and came through with flying colors to receive all superior ratings. They also enlivened the football games with music. These achievements were not free, as shown by band members' blue fingers after practice from seven until nine a.m. each morning. The concert band put on four outstanding concerts open to the public. The pep band performed at home basketball games and at some girls' basketball games, providing a great deal of school spirit. The stage band practiced from seven fifteen until eight a.m. three days a week, which payed off when they attended four competitions and received superior ratings.

Dance Team and Flags

Hear the word band and what is the first thing that comes to your mind? Is it musical notes? instruments? or Rodney? There are a lot more parts to the band than most people realize. The Thunderettes and Flags are just as much a part of the band as any instrument-playing member.

The Thunderettes were 24 skilled performers. They practiced every morning and after-school. Besides performing at the half-times of football and basketball games, they marched in summer parades, competed in contests with the band, and attended clinics. They participated in several fund-raisers for band including bake sales, pizza sales, distributing coupons, and selling tickets to the band soup supper.

This is the second year the Flag Corps has been a part of the band. There are a total of six flag girls who practiced with the band in the mornings. They attended all the contests and competed with the band.

R.O.T.C.

ROTC had an active year. The Color Guard presented the openings at many local functions. The members helped with Special Olympics, marched in several parades, competed in four drill meets and escorted the homecoming candidates at the homecoming football game. There were monthly activities such as a halloween party, the November hayride, and the Military Ball held in January.

Colonel Knight believes that each member had the resource to succeed in life because of the fundamentals gained in ROTC.

West Wind News Staff

The West Wind news staff were a group of hungry reporters famished for a good scoop of news around the school, who kept the beat on typewriters and computers to publish the paper bi-weekly.

These are the faces in front of the brains of all those seemingly harmless high school students who are really Clark and Carla Kents.

Memories

The yearbook is to enhance your memory. As you look through memories of this academic year and see the reflection of you as it was when you were celebrating the good times in your high school years, remember that these are the times of your life.

Wayne Babst, below, is busy, busy, busy! Chris Harvell, at the top, is doing what he does best, and Paul Ferguson selects pictures for the yearbook.

We Have Pride

The football and basketball cheerleaders showed lots of spirit for the Thunderbirds; not only on the sidelines, but also in decorating lockers and by showing enthusiasm at pep rallies.

The volleyball and wrestling cheerleaders exhibited pride and support for the Thunderbird teams. The cheerleaders maintained a positive, supportive attitude toward Bellevue West athletic teams which helped school spirit and unity. The student body agreed that it seemed difficult to keep up the student body morale at times.

Southroads has more of everything

all at one convenient place

We're just a few minutes drive up Highway 73-75 north of Offutt and SAC. We're a galaxy of great stores, fashion shops and special services. You'll enjoy comfortable shopping in our enclosed mall and over 2800 parking spaces to make your shopping trips easier. We're open every evening till 9 p.m. and Sundays from noon till 5 p.m. And if you're a sale addict you'll love our big mall sales . . . a stampede for those special finds dear to the hearts of bargain hunters. We're more fashion than most shopping centers, too . . . in fact, we're Offutt's and Bellevue's favorite shopping center, and we're looking forward to meeting you!

To the Faculty, Administration, and Student body, particularly the Class of 1984

The purpose of a yearbook is difficult to define. Ideally, we feel a yearbook should represent student views of the school, its curriculum, its activities, its people. Yet, this too is an imperfect description. For how can we, as editors, or as eleven staff members profess to represent the thoughts and feelings of nearly 900 students? Obviously there are far too many students with varied ideas to even hope for that kind of success.

What we have tried to present in the 1984 Thunderbird is the clearest, most accurate and most objective interpretation possible. The yearbook format changes in headline, copy, and layout style serve not only to make the yearbook more attractive, but to draw your attention more closely to what we have said in interpreting the year.

We hope the 1984 Thunderbird will please all its readers, we seek most the approval of the class of '84, for this yearbook will be their last.

Sharleen,

Hey neighbor! I'm really glad we live so close so I get to see you after school! Track was really a blast huh! (J.S.) ☺ Anyway, you did really good - I wish you'd run in Bleville - you'd be wasome! Anyway, no more Kardell! Anyone's gotta be better - well you know what I mean in case he's reading this! Anyway Good Luck in Texas and Write me. I'm not the best writer in the world but I will write!

Good Luck,

Jules

Sharleen-

It has really been fun having you in Band and in P.E. You are really a sweet young lady. Stay that way and good luck for the rest of your life. Don't forget about me. I'll be sure to write you. Thanx for everything I learned cuz' you also taught me a lot. I'll never forget how she walks like I do and how she walks in the future as well. Good luck in Texas, have a terrific summer.

Miss Hall

P.S.

I'll miss you guys

Sharleen-

Looks like we've made it thru another year, in another "interesting" class, with another interesting teacher, with a beard, (mc Dermot, biology, Zarther, geometry) & GLASSES & an "interesting" personality. I'm so glad we're frenz, I never could have made it w/o you last year! I wish you weren't moving! Thanx for everything you've done for me & keep in touch!! Frenz always

WRITE!

Original, huh? I thought so too.
Its been great knowing you these past hundred years (give or take a few). Its too bad you have to move, but I'm sure you'll love
Bee-ville! Good luck there!

Sharleen,

You're a really sweet really pretty girl and I'm glad we met this year. It's been really neat getting to know you and becoming friends this year. I only wish we had more time. I didn't realize you were moving - good luck with everything you try in your new home. Take care of yourself!!

Love
Jan Hallman

Sharleen,
I'm glad we had English together this year. I had fun getting to know you! Track was different, but we had some fun new events. (hate!) I hope to see you ever summer! and year. Stephanie

Sharleen,

I'm glad I got to see you a lot more this year. Your such a sweet person. Have a great summer and I hope to see you in some of my classes next year. Best of luck

Love ya,
Lisa

Sharleen,
Well it has been fun this year. I really hope I get to see you next year. Because you are a great friend. Have a great summer and a great year. Love ya,
Dawn

Sharleen,
I'm sorry about last year's message. I'm really glad I got to know you. You are a very sweet person. Have a great summer and I hope to see you in some of my classes next year. Best of luck

Love ya,

Sharleen,
I'm going to miss you! Especially your sweet personality. I'm really glad I got to know you and met ya. You're a super sweet person. It seems like you're having a lot of fun here and everything. Take care and good luck in the future.

Love ya,
Lisa

Sharleen,
I'm really glad we got to be such good friends over these last three years. You have been almost like a sister to me (except we never fight). I'm really going to miss you when I move. Good luck in Texas. make the most out of your life (I'm sure you will). You had better write to me a lot when I move! thanks for being such a good friend.

Love,
Carol

Sharleen,
Youire a lot of fun to be around, and it's great to tease you. I'm really glad that we were able to become friends. Best of luck in Texas.

Sharleen,
It's always been nice knowing you - I'm going to miss you a lot, but I hope you enjoy Texas much more than Nebraska. Make a lot of new friends, keep studying hard, sprinting well, and most of all enjoy life. I hope I see you again one day - perhaps in med school!

Scott Saunders

Sharleen,
you really are a wonderful parleur de français. I had a great time driving you crazy during class. Thank you for not blowing up my house. Have fun, and always remember your favorite teacher, Mrs. Musick.

Bye for now,

Bill Howell

Sharleen,
I really don't know you to well but I still enjoy your company at lunch. I hope that we will have the chance to become better friends in the future. Have a nice summer.

See ya
